Foreword

YESTERDAY was 1861—Tomorrow is 1962—Today is the momentary bridge that links two centuries, so recently Tomorrow, so soon another Yesterday. Only once in Forever comes the magic hour when a State reaches its century mark. Kansas, born on a cold January 29th in 1861 has reached the ultimate in veneration—extolled for its virtues, excused for its faults, loved as a homeland, and prodded into renewed vigor.

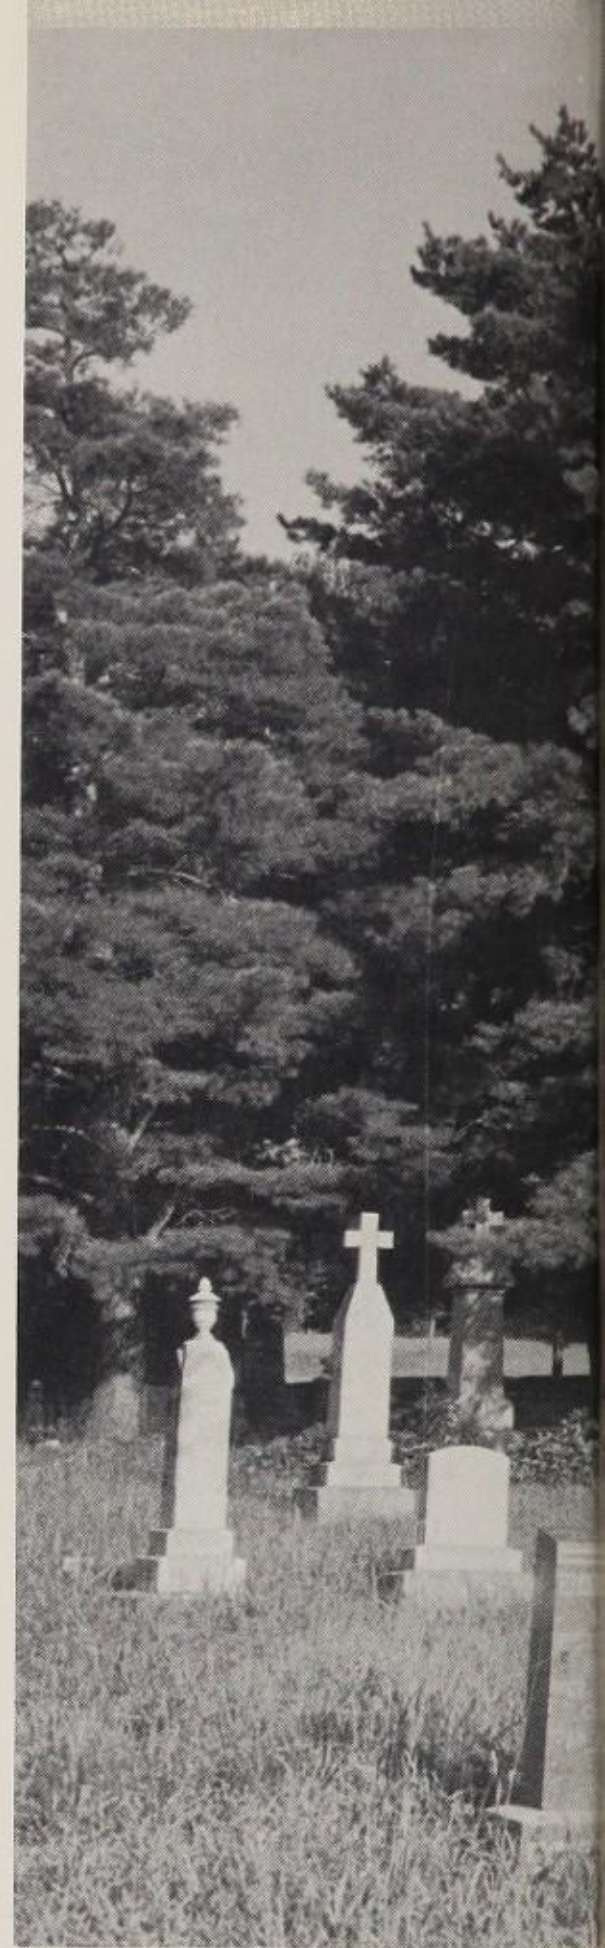

In its near-century of existence, Topeka High School, as a mid-plain educational institution, has grown along with Kansas, exploring, enduring, exulting, and evaluating its purposes. To dedicate a yearbook to past, present, and future generations is too big an attempt, too vast a presumption. But to commemorate a milestone and to make a permanent record of a year is within our reach. So quickly do the Todays become Yesterdays and the Tomorrows come alive as new and promising Todays, that memory needs reinforcement.

On these pages are recorded the happenings of a school year. May they recall the pleasures of those events and also be reminders of the backdrop which is Mid-America and our fine heritage—

THE SPIRIT of the Kansas Pioneers is sympathetically depicted in the handsome bronze monument designed by Robert Merrell Gage, Class of 1911. Her strength of body and warmth of feeling—her all-encompassing motherhood—brought to the great Mid-West the sturdy character so symbolic of its natural attributes. The artist, known also for the Lincoln statue on the State Capitol grounds, has executed many commissions.

has become the ever-present
aim of Troy's top echelon.

Administration

GOVERNMENT for the people and by the people had inspiration in the determination of Kansas settlers to establish law and order according to the needs of the times. From this source have sprung some of the country's great leaders, religious, educational, political, military, cultural. Troy's directors have shown the same clear vision, practical application, and sincere humanitarianism of their forebears but in the light of modern thinking and scientific advancements.

THE TERRITORIAL Capitol at Ft. Riley antedated statehood by nearly a decade and saw the beginning of the struggle that put "Bloody Kansas" in the history books.

City Schools

No Challenge Too Big For Men of Dedication

THE SMOOTH operation of Topeka's schools from kindergarten through high school depended heavily on the abilities and devoted efforts of the elected School Board members and the appointed administrators. Their responsibilities ranged all the way from repair work to new construction, from curricula to the raising of teaching standards, from salaries to school book rentals—all depending on how the community sees "education."

The success of the November bond issue was a triumph to both the system and individuals, but the job of keeping up with steadily increasing enrollment still contributes headaches. The staffing and planning of Topeka West has been of special interest to this year's student body which will send several hundred of its number to the new school. As Topeka high school students become more aware of present day economics and the demands of life in the 60's, the appreciation of the administrators is increasingly evident.

EFFICIENCY is the watchword of the Board's clerk-secretary, Mrs. LaVon Armendariz, and the new treasurer, Mrs. Louise Blackim.

Directors Responsive To Needs of Students

COMPETENT and abreast of the times, Troy's six-man administrative staff worked diligently to present both the gaining of knowledge and the adjustment to widening horizons as exciting challenges to a large and varied student body. They worked on the humanistic theory that each individual presents a new "frontier" that must be explored and conquered just as our forefathers viewed the often unfathomable West.

1960-61 presented a tremendous problem of enrollment and curriculum planning because the organization of the new Topeka West High directly affected about 400 members of Troy's student body and influenced plans for the regular 1961-62 schedules in both schools.

As "Coordinator Extraordinaire", Principal Weaver held the reins of academic and guidance fields, scholarship preparation and awards, and the necessary contacts of investigation and discipline that are all a part of the life of a large and progressive school. With his confreres he constantly kept in mind the great responsibility of good public relations so necessary in this day when democracy and education are on trial all over the world.

Patience, Enthusiasms Develop Needed 'Push'

NO JOB TOO BIG—no result too impossible. This was the challenge that was met by Troy's 100-member faculty every hour of every day of every week of the 1960-61 school year. The all-over picture of their dedication to what they believed in—gaining of knowledge by motivation for learning—was sometimes a dreary one, sometimes a bright one, depending on the response of those in their classes.

Often their efforts crashed against the stone wall of teenage unconcern. At other times the onrush of intellectual curiosity carried them along in as eager anticipation as that shown by their students.

In addition to the duties of teaching subject matter, faculty members enjoyed family responsibilities and participated in church and community interests. They crowded into their busy lives advanced courses to complete higher degrees; and they took time out for travel, relaxation, and hobbies.

AS MAINE WENT, so went the Bellamy-ites. Pep Clubbers gave Mrs. Greer, Miss Miller, and Mr. and Mrs. Weaver a noisy sendoff to Cony High's 19th Annual Bellamy Award ceremonies.

Togetherness Develops Accumulative Strengths

TROY'S TEACHERS were "joiners" in the best sense of the word. They joined their fellow workers in the Guild, the Majority Club, and the Men's Club.

They joined the Topeka and Kansas teachers and enjoyed the benefits of the National Educational Association. They joined in roundtable discussions, departmental meetings, study groups, demonstrations.

Each joined a particular group of students in advising and sponsoring some extra-curricular activity. Thus, the contents of each teacher's billfold would probably reveal memberships and "credit cards" in all fields where "In Union There Is Strength."

Office Personnel

Demands of All Types Keeps Workers on Toes

OFTEN TAKEN for granted, Troy's efficient office staff kept pace with the ever-demanding needs of 2200 students and put into operation the wishes and directives of the administrators. Duties varied from cataloguing and renting books to ordering food supplies, typing bulletins, putting through long distance calls, and answering mail.

Mindful of the welfare of both student body and faculty, Nurse Boon and her corps of proctors kept records, gave tests, and promoted health standards as well as tended to emergency physical needs.

A portion of the staff remained on duty twelve months of the year and continued work on enrollment, financing, and scheduling from June to September. Thus, the thousand-and-one details of closing one year and opening another gave round-the-calendar duties to the "front office" personnel.

A SENIOR'S best friend. Preparing, filing, and mailing transcripts is the time-consuming job of Registrar Hoad.

Departments

EDUCATION for youth, like the need for clear thinking and the right to speak and worship, was the cornerstone in the development of the early Kansas spirit of progress. From the one-room building that housed classes for the children of the pioneers the multi-faceted schools of today have grown. Trojans have been fortunate because their surroundings have been comfortable and adequate, their instruction comprehensive, and their "towers" have pointed upward to wide-spread goals. Theirs is a proud and fond heritage.

English

Concentrated Efforts Stress National Trend

THAT NOTHING should supersede the teaching of the language arts in the Topeka public schools was the basic intent of the faculty of this vital department. A balanced program emphasized grammar and rhetoric on the one hand and literary highlights on the other.

Following the prescribed sophomore and junior courses, seniors chose to review technical English, survey the world's literature, or explore creative writing. Speech training, reading improvement, play production, and journalism were based on particular needs or drew on special talents.

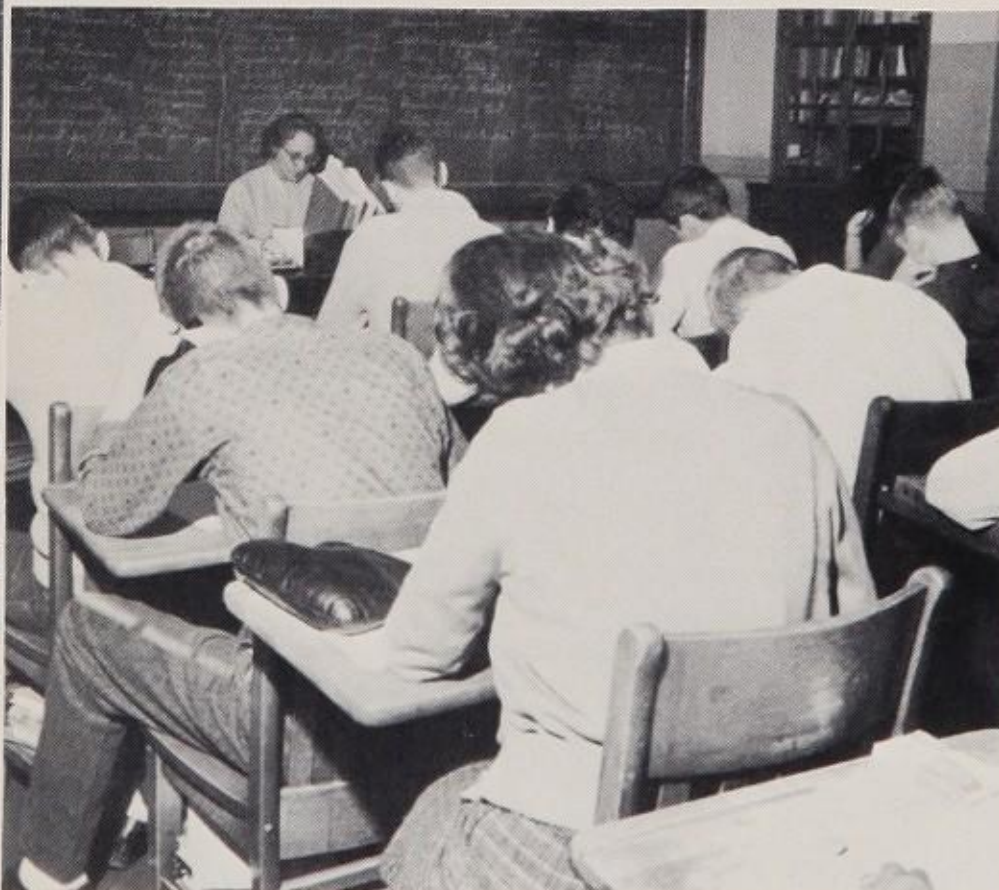

Alert to changing goals, the "Conant Method" was tried on all levels, a system of smaller classes and heavy emphasis on writing skills. Once again the sequence classes challenged students to coordinate their English and social studies projects. And finally, in an attempt to polish up literary efforts, many students entered poems and essays in local and national contests, while all were encouraged to read as widely as possible to develop an appreciation of the "wonderful world of books."

Mathematics

'Depth' Appreciation Cue to Basic Studies

SYSTEMATIC methods of reasoning and the necessity of "depth" comprehension were accented in both the general and advanced courses from basic math through algebra and geometry to EPSI. Whether or not a student showed a "genius" rating, he was made aware of the values of the subject in its everyday applications as well as being stimulated to investigate wide open scientific fields.

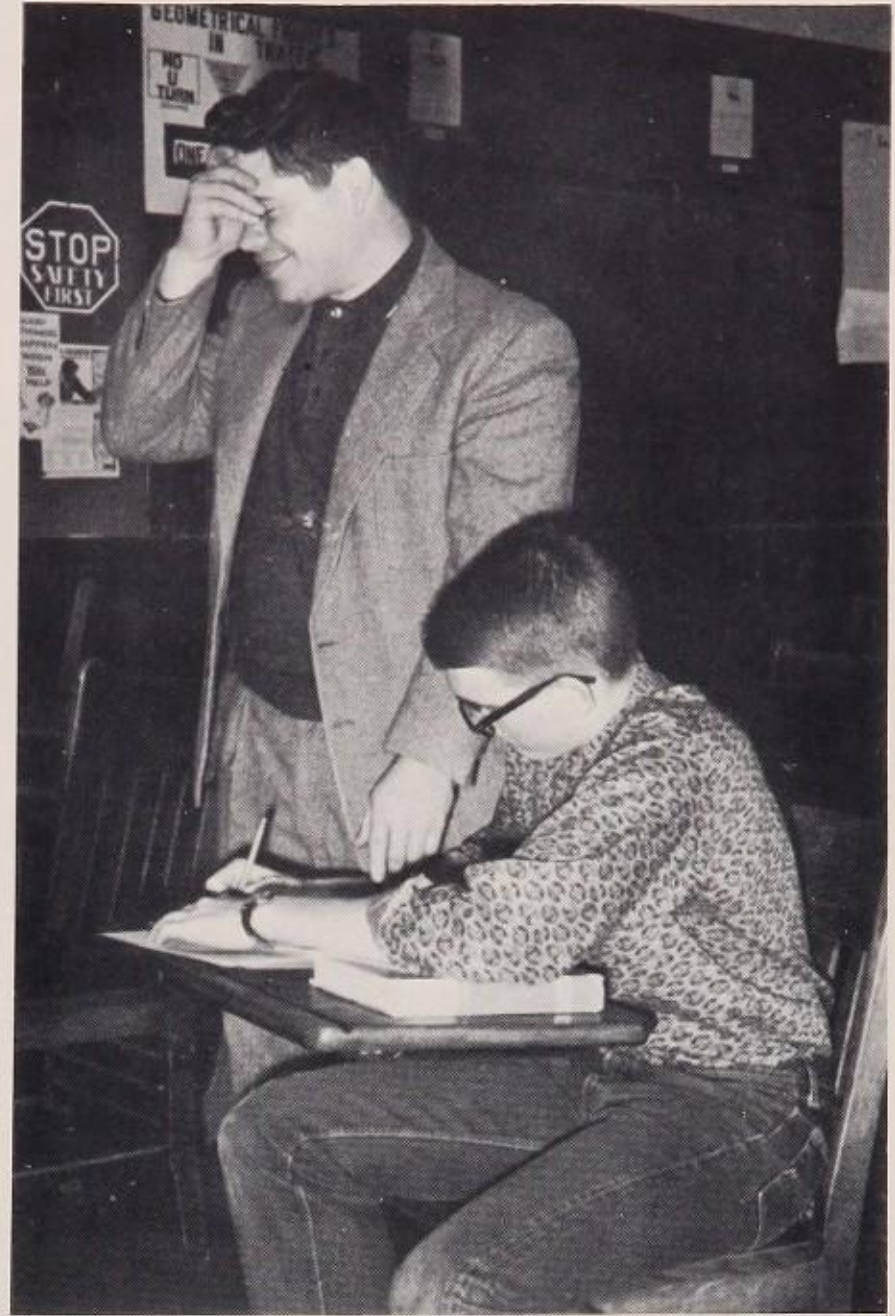

Concerned with the stronger demands of colleges for stepped-up programs on the junior high and high school levels, a city-wide math study, set up by the department chairman and her committees, gave impetus to additional teacher training. This in turn was reflected in students' interests, accomplishments, and career plans. As an example, K.U.'s summer camp accepted Judy Bodenhausen, Ken Wilke, Gary Scott, and Pat Baude for further advancement and the challenge of working with other top students from all over the country.

Science

Today's View Includes Tomorrow's Challenge

WHY DOES it tick? How is it measured? Where'd it come from? What's it made of? are questions that confront mankind from the cradle to the grave. Many are completely answered during the lower grades; others take the maturity of high school investigation; and still others are theoretical and problematical and their answers project into career planning. Troy's forty-five classes of general science, biology, botany, physiology, physics, and chemistry were crowded with students eager to understand the present day's emphasis on both the physical and natural sciences.

Special studies in the teaching areas developed new methods in the presentation of the sciences in order to encourage career planning. The Science Seminar, in its second successful year, brought in professional speakers and teams to demonstrate specialized areas. In addition, University Science Days, field trips, and the annual Science Fair stimulated out-of-class experimentation and research.

Social Studies

Broader Views Explain Contemporary Turmoil

BY BECOMING more aware of the fundamental principles of democracy and the steps the American people took in choosing this form of government, students of social sciences were more able to interpret the political and economic struggles of the day.

Veins of international divergencies were studied in World Background and World History. American History helped juniors trace our varied heritages. Seniors examined the structure of government and the duties of its administrators; many took part in City and County Days. Interested students were also able to enroll in specialized courses dealing with contemporary American problems, economics, or psychology to help them understand themselves and those around them.

With this wide scope of subjects and an informed teaching corps, prejudices and faulty reasoning were examined and often erased while understanding and long-range thinking took their places. Students stood nearer becoming good citizens, enjoying the rights and duties which accompany freedom, yet being forceful without violating the privileges of their fellowmen.

Debate

Sturdy Efforts Count; Yearly Record Grows

WITH BRIEF cases packed and mental notes organized, Trojan debaters were a constant asset to the school and area in the field of good public relations as well as specific capabilities. They carried the 1960 question of "Resolved: That the United Nations should be significantly strengthened," to tournaments throughout Kansas, and their commendable record reflected high spirits and good sportsmanship. In the past ten years of competition, squads have brought back from the State Tournaments five firsts, one second, and two thirds.

As spring advanced, underclassmen began the study of next year's topic, and hopes for even better showings have stimulated both novices and lettermen in rigid research and concentrated practice of good techniques. Pep Club's backing of school support was of advantage in bringing "intellectual contests" to the popularity status of athletics and politics on the Trojan home field, and the bulging trophy cases were testimony of that accomplishment.

Languages

Wider Understanding Foretells World Peace

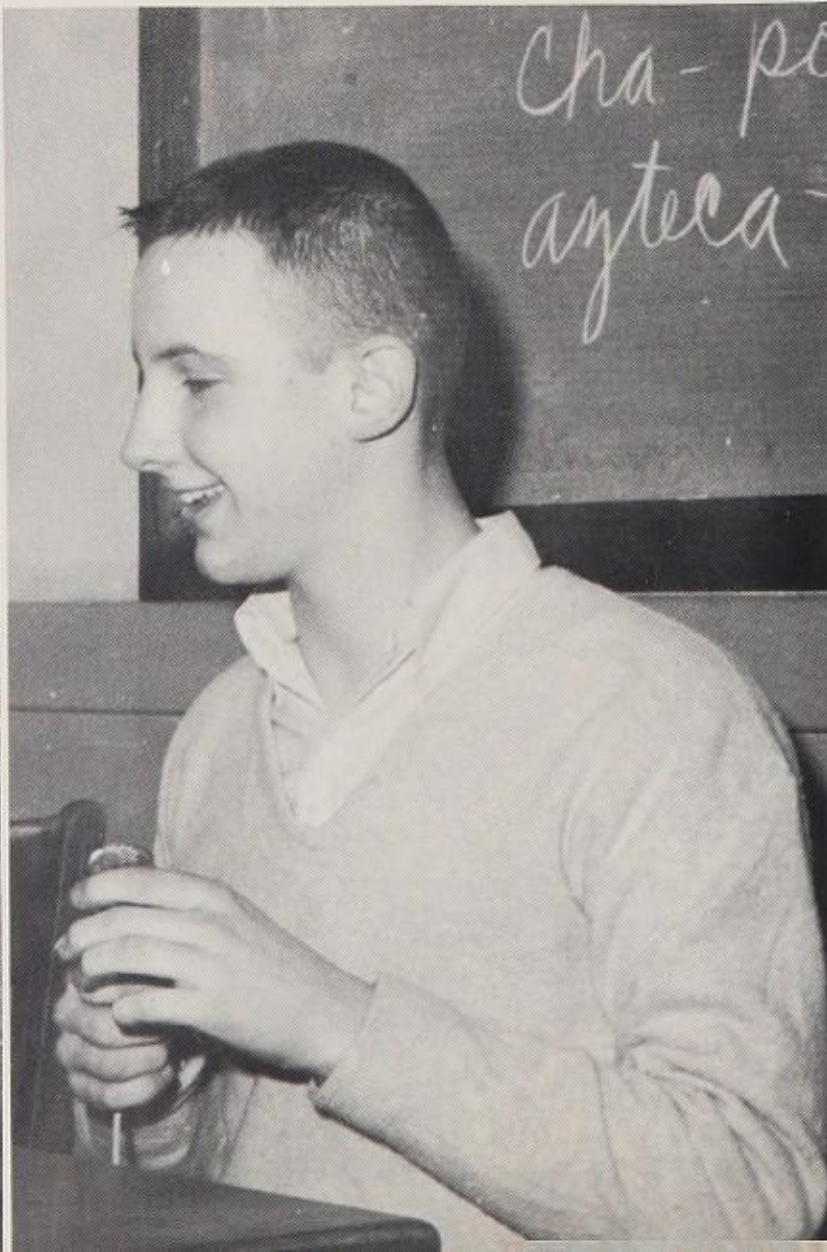

PULLING down the language barrier has become a top concern in recent nation-wide studies. Troy's quintet of teachers has placed special emphasis on clear communication in the knowledge of its importance in international understanding.

First year French, Spanish, and Latin students accomplished a basic comprehension of structure and vocabulary to be followed in the second and third years by increased reading skills, intense conversational practice, and comprehensive cultural study of the peoples involved.

Recording booths, new last September, gave students the opportunity to hear their language spoken properly. Lessons were recorded and speech difficulties ironed out in up-dated laboratory methods. In addition, all courses of study sought a level of conversational "ease" and a wide acquaintance with the history, peoples, attitudes, problems, and literature of the French, Spanish, and Latin countries.

Business

Competent Preparing Fosters Job Security

WIDE COVERAGE and adequate preparation were provided several hundred business students at THS. Training was intended to improve their clerical skills and prepare them for the conditions, needs, and possibilities of openings in their chosen career fields.

Typing, shorthand, transcription, stenography, and business machines emphasized the basic methods and perfected speed and accuracy. General clerical procedures covered as broad a field as its name implied, while such specific courses as bookkeeping, business law, English, and arithmetic combined theory with practice into valuable education.

Co-operative retail selling and office practice classes enabled selected vocational commerce students to acquire first-hand experience while supplementing their incomes. In this teacher-employer-employee relationship, known as Distributive Education, students entered offices and businesses during afternoon working hours. Such "laboratory" training gave them an introduction into post-graduate job planning where their careful adherence to good business practices made a demand for their services and gave them "an edge" over the untrained.

Well-Rounded Agenda Values Sportsmanship

IMPROVING health, bettering sportsmanship, and enjoying new sports experiences were headlines in the well planned programs of this vital department. Gym, pool, and field all had their devotees. Universal participation in swimming, hockey, volleyball, fencing, and the trampoline were included in the sophomore year. For those with particular interests and aptitudes, advanced sports added golf, archery, bowling, modern dance, and a variety of competitive games depending largely on the weather.

A Senior Leader program added a final round of training for girls who showed career interests in the Phys Ed fields in either avocational sports or the teaching profession. They adapted themselves to situations in which they accepted leadership responsibilities or performed routine instruction in gymnastics or sports.

Boys' Phys Ed

Bodies, Minds Build Through Competition

DEVELOPMENT of muscles, personalities, and coordination, together with an appreciation of good sportsmanship, were the objectives clearly outlined in the training programs of an effective Phys Ed department.

Active indoor and outdoor sports combined with drills in first aid and safety to constitute each of twelve full courses. During winter months, the boys were occupied mastering the skills of swimming, handball, wrestling, workouts on the trampoline and parallel bars, and gymnastics. Weather permitting, these same boys moved outside for soccer, softball, track, and touch football. Athletic activities spilled over into the afternoon and evening hours when an effective intramural program offered lively homeroom competition.

Third year students spent their time acting as Senior Leaders. As such they served as right hand men to their teachers and became responsible assistant instructors, many looking forward to similar careers in the physical education field.

Home Economics

Balanced Program Aid To 'Complete Living'

WHAT MAKES a house a home? What makes "home" and "living" synonymous to women? Girls in Home Economics classes reached the answers through learning the fundamentals of nutrition, clothing, textiles, home management, interior decoration, and social living. Coordinating these, they were provided with a sound background which tends to enhance the dignity of the American Home.

Home Economics is the one profession which offers opportunities for the practical application of the Arts and Sciences in the preparation of young women for homemaking or special careers in related fields. In a wide-open range with no male competition, girls can choose costume designing, fashion coordinating, dietetics, interior decoration, teaching, counselling, journalism, home service directing, or extension specializing.

Whether a girl planned a career, family, or both, she gained through this department a sense of respect and values in which she will be better prepared to fill her place in adult society and be more capable of meeting her obligations in home and community.

Library

Great World of Books Spreads Out for Troy

AMID surroundings that speak of architectural beauty and the cultural background of letters, Trojan students enjoyed the special privilege of a superior school library. Well-filled book shelves, hundreds of periodicals, stacks of reference materials, and the services of reader advisers were successful in proving the quotation carved in stone over the southeast door that "Books are friends . . . ."

Boosting the theory that books should be owned as well as borrowed, the Third Annual Paperback Book Fair enjoyed a week of record sales and interest. Of the 4,341 volumes sold, Rogel's Thesaurus and Gone With the Wind were again among the ten top favorites.

The library staff worked diligently to maintain high standards and to be progressive in its permanent purchases. Miss Miller conducted surveys and training classes, spoke to large and small groups, and aided teachers in making the unusual library facilities an integral part of all subject matter.

Exploring Many Fields Boosts Native Ability

ORIGINALITY, imagination, and interpretation were the keystones of Troy's art department. Students developed techniques along with pleasing results in the fields of painting, design, illustrating, lettering, layout work, weaving, leather tooling, wood carving, ceramics, mosaics, costume designing, and metal smithing.

Fundamentals of art were learned in first year classes when novices explored ceramics, crafts, and painting in a tri-term schedule. Advanced students enjoyed varied creative outlets and achieved recognition in gallery displays. To broaden interests, volunteers added artistic touches to school activities by way of window displays, and silk-screened posters.

TROY'S pride and joy—The Black and Gold Choir.

Choir, Madrigals

Wide Repertoire Sets Performance Patterns

ROBED in black with gold satin cowls, the Trojan choir was often on stage to share a deep love of music with an appreciative student audience. The versatile singers performed everything from religious numbers to popular Broadway tunes with the competence of true musicians. Special music assemblies at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter found the choir performing new and traditional arrangements of well-loved numbers. As an additional treat to the whole school, Mr. Fly and his 6th Hour singers caroled through the halls during the week before the holiday vacation.

Appearing in formal attire and in the Old English banquet table tradition, the Madrigal Singers were a featured a cappella group. The three holiday seasons brought many demands from local organizations for guest appearances. Their repertoire stressed old European melodies, but folk tunes, spirituals, show numbers, and popular songs added to Troy's reputation of "The Best in Music" wherever the group was heard.

Glee Clubs

Music Ensembles Sing For School, Community

FOUR BASSES work out with Director Fly. Marvin Kuehn, Stuart McCall, Pete Stromquist, and Harlan Jennings.

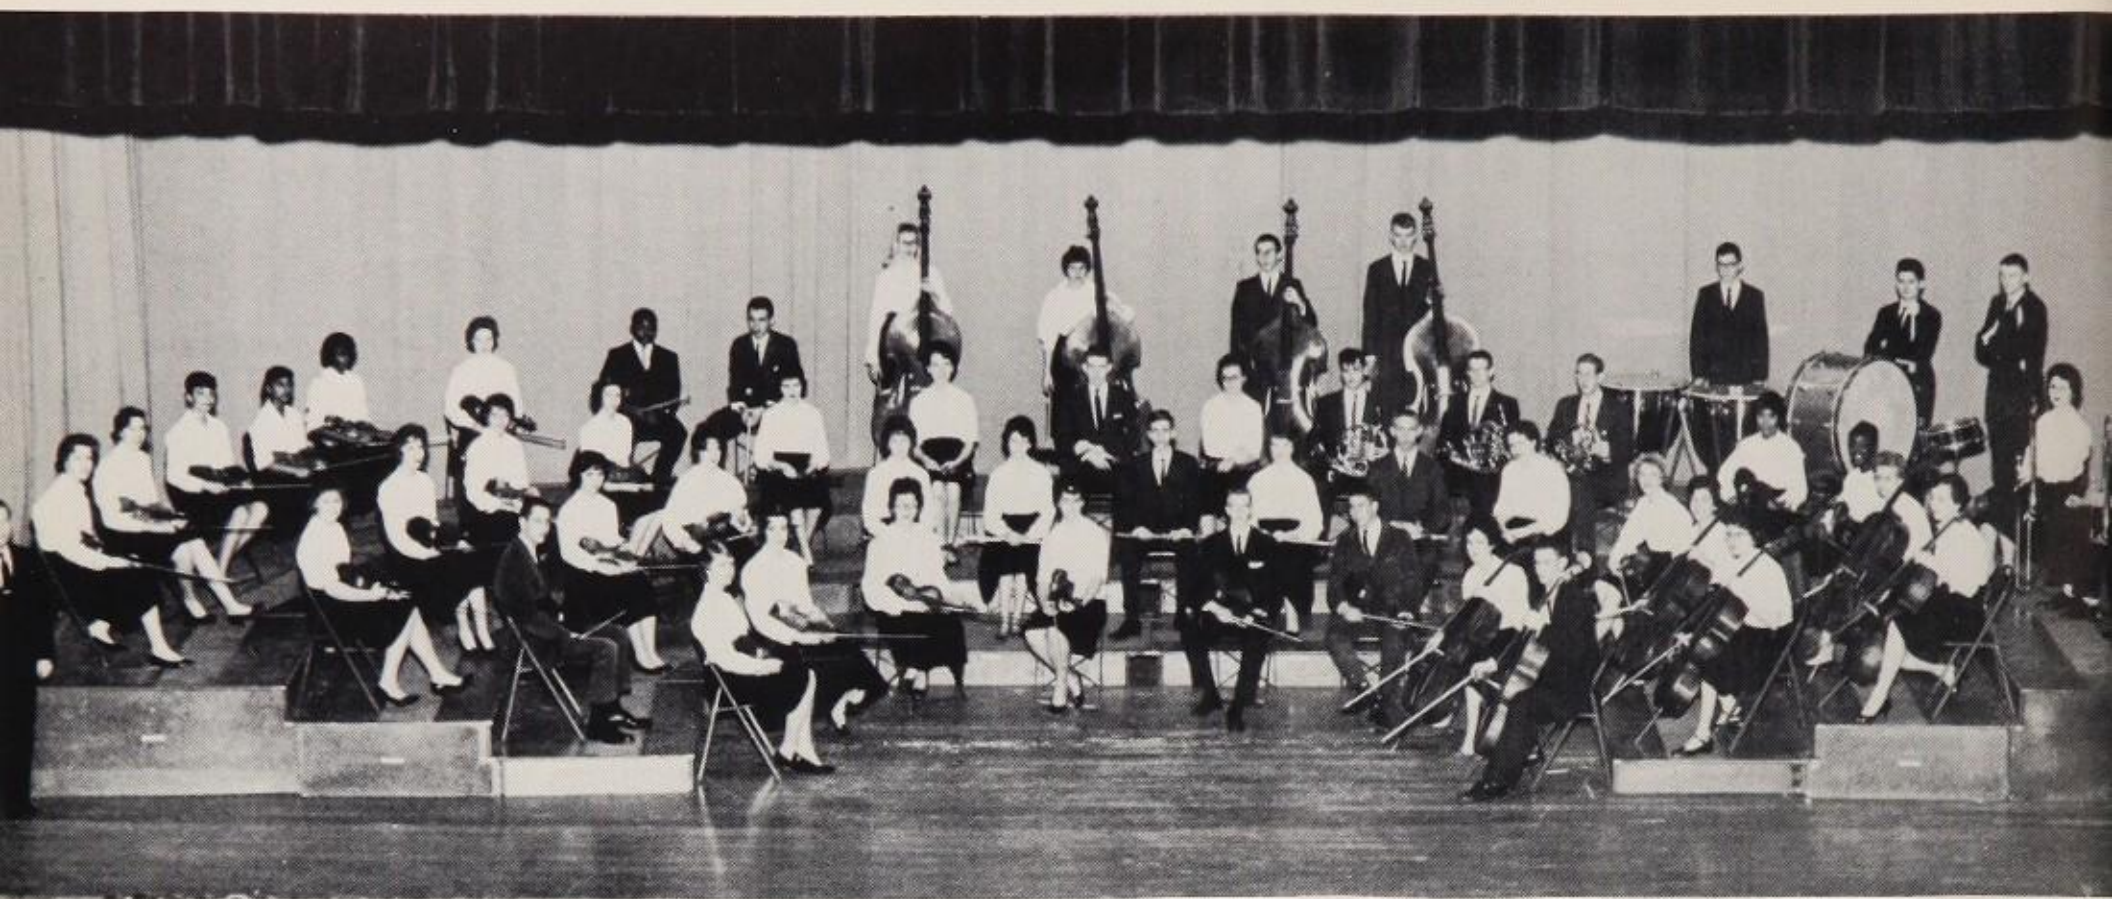

"MUSIC, Spread Thy Voice Around," was a popular number with the Girls' Glee Club, and its words established an appropriate theme for all the clubs and ensembles. Many types of music were introduced to each group, and selections from such well-loved musicals as South Pacific and Flower Drum Song balanced the traditional classics, ballads, folk songs, and spirituals. Using recording machines in the course of rehearsals, singers were able to be critical of their own efforts, and the directors could study strengths and weaknesses and determine the needs of particular groups.

Spring festival competition required concentrated efforts in March practice sessions, and the annual spring concert for parents and friends brought all groups to performance peaks. The trio of holiday programs included special numbers as well as combined choruses.

Trojanaires, Trojanettes, and Boys' Quartet were composed of selected voices from the larger groups. Each made several appearances before civic and church audiences, and Troy's "Sound of Music" not only filtered through the school, but streamed out over the community and sometimes over the air waves via the magic of radio and TV.

Orchestra

Members Tune Selves For Top Performances

QUALITY of presentation blended the outstanding orchestral accomplishments of the 1960-61 season. Striving to "get into the swing" in the early fall, the group prepared for their first appearance, the annual Pop Concert. Then spring found them polishing up numbers for a formal concert for parents and friends.

Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter assemblies were made more meaningful with the addition of accompaniment and solo numbers, while the pit orchestra was outstanding in its support of the vocalists in South Pacific, again receiving rewarding applause.

Performances before civic clubs and preparations for festivals and clinics gave added impetus to practice sessions, and the active training ground of the Youth Symphony heightened appreciation. Several members served on the Civic Symphony advisory committee and Joe Klugg and Marty Ladner won the Symphony's auditions and were featured in the February concert.

Band

Sounds of Music Lift Trojans to New Levels

IN MID-FEBRUARY Troy's band and directors literally took a bow as they inaugurated another "first." The occasion was the receipt of the manuscript of Dr. Benjamin Dunford's composition, People of the South Wind, a Centennial suite. It was written especially for the group after the well-known composer had studied recordings and the recommendations of music critics. "The first time a major composer has been commissioned to write for a high school concert band," was Director Neaderhiser's proud comment.

Long hours of practice as a marching band at fall athletic events built the confidence and spirit which grew through the winter months into concert stature, equal to the mature performance of the Centennial Suite at the annual spring concert.

For the second year Mr. Don Jacoby, trumpet virtuoso, was guest conductor for Troy's colorful musical group following a clinic of several hundred students from Eastern Kansas schools. His enthusiasm inspired both practice and concert performances and gave added vigor to the "Sound of Music" on the Trojan stage.

Year-Round Learning Offered in Overtime

THE FIVE-DAY-a-week school program was expanded with summer and night schools to provide the public with opportunities to make up credits or quench a thirst for extra subjects. English, social studies, biology, chemistry, and typing were offered in a concentrated eight-week summer session for several hundred area students. Catering to adults, the night school program included classes in English, math, health, homemaking, crafts, mechanics, and other specialties.

Recruited for duty, many Topeka High teachers doubled up and worked the extra sessions. Their guidance plus the "overtime" facilities of the school made full use of Topeka's educational facilities.

Training Opportunity Assures Job Opening

VOCATIONAL training was offered to apprentices and high school boys by this important part of the school system. Well-qualified instructors and workshops equipped with up-to-date tools aided the students in gaining knowledge and experience in the fields of photography, radio, TV, printing, auto mechanics, welding, machine shop, and electricity.

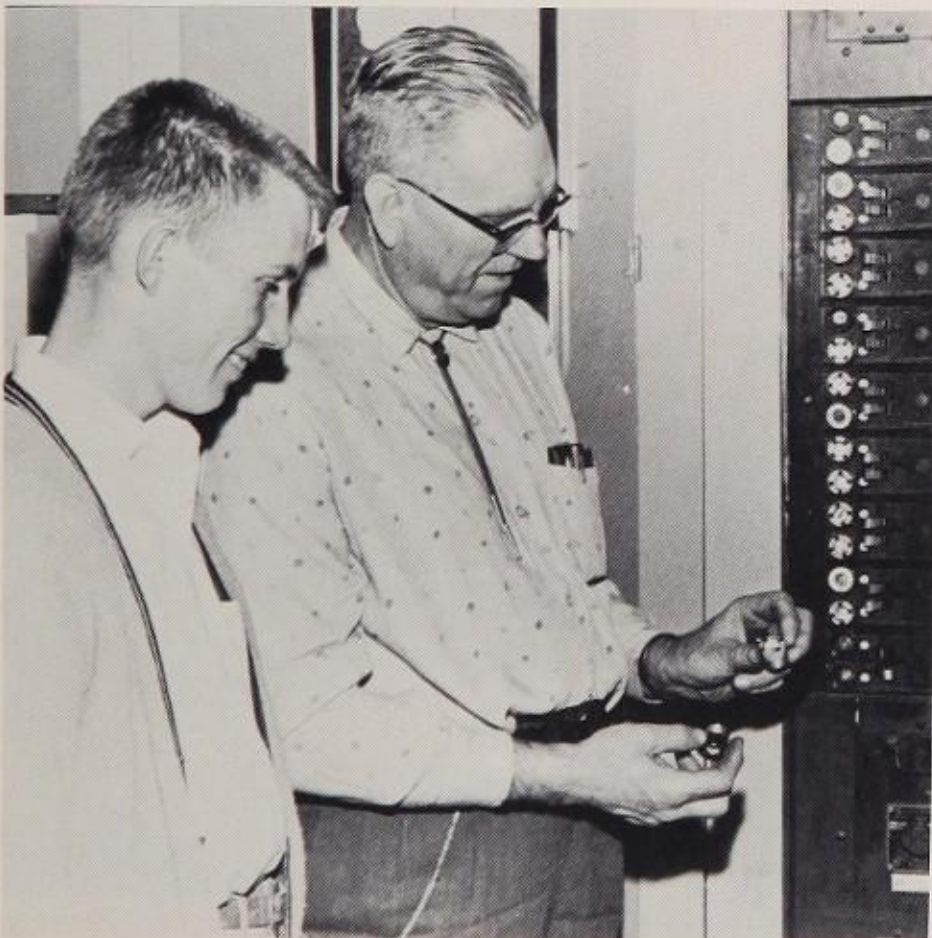

Placed in these various fields through aptitude tests, students enrolled at the close of the sophomore year. After spending the first three hours of the school day in regular classes, they transferred to the Harrison Street building for vocational work. Upon completion of their training this spring, graduates will receive a special certificate in addition to a regular high school diploma.

A close relation was maintained between the Trade School and Topeka's labor and management committees. In addition, job openings were listed and aid given to placement in good paying jobs.

Unsung 'Heroes' Keep Troy's Wheels Turning

CLEAN UP! Scrub up! Cook up! Feed up! Yea, Trojans! This could literally be the bolstering pep yell of the nearly fifty loyal workers who made life comfortable in some manner for 2400 THS students, teachers, and their frequent guests.

Feeding a "starving" student body on a flowing lunch line one-and-a-half hours and several blocks long was a challenge to the eighteen-member cafeteria staff. From home-baked pies and rolls, special dishes like chili, pizza, and tamale pie to the ever-popular mashed potatoes and gravy, Miss Youngquist's crew cooked and served wholesome and tasty meals. On the supervisory side, both Mr. Dilley and Mr. Erwin accomplished wonders in handling the tray carriers and creating a pleasing atmosphere.

Sudden temperature changes were the constant bugaboo of the custodial staff. An electrical storm that knocked out power lines, troublesome snow drifts, and unscheduled heat waves all added furrows to brows and callouses to hands as emergencies were met and life at Troy flowed on.

TRANSPORTATION over the Kansas prairies has always been like a dart—straight as an arrow to its destination. Trudging settlers, covered wagon trains, cattle drivers, iron-horse engineers, motorized equipment, jet propelled aircraft all have sought and found their focal points. Trojans, too, always move ahead, their vehicles the school-sponsored organizations that embellish their efforts to forge ahead.

Elections

Fanfare, Color Join Up As Old Order Changes

ENERGETIC candidates and supporters participated enthusiastically in Troy's final fall election week. Spring elections will replace the time-honored system as it makes way for progressive measures and plans for the new Topeka West High School.

The election rally introduced candidates and boosted spirits of the voters, followed by five spinning days of confusion, tension, and pleas for support. Bands and parades accompanied the cheers of enthusiasm and display of clever posters and slogans. Two banner-packed assemblies gave finalists the opportunities to voice platforms and opinions before the tally. Then newly elected leaders for 1960-61 were formally introduced at the Election Dance in their honor.

Although as full of color and fanfare as the recent conventions in San Francisco and Chicago, Troy climaxed its annual experiment in democratic procedures with a high degree of sincerity when all the new officers were sworn in by Judge George Scott.

Student Council

Wishes, Needs, Duties Mark Chief Purposes

PATTERNED after our national bicameral governmental bodies, Troy's Student Council made up the upper house of the Student Congress. This conscientious and industrious body met in Room 200 each Monday at 7:45 to represent the individual classes and the entire student body by working on a wide variety of projects. Presided over by the Congress Vice-President and backed up by other officers elected by the student body, its membership included class presidents and representatives, and its meetings were open to "balcony" guests.

The Council arranged the All-School Christmas party, promoted the annual Officers Training Course, sponsored W.P.A. Week, and saved students countless dollars by setting up the Christmas Post Office. Additional duties in the 1960-61 sessions involved the rules governing spring elections at THS and the writing of a constitution for the new Topeka West when it gets under way next fall.

Student Council's special responsibility, as always, was its highly important one of interpreting administrative directives to the student body and in turn presenting student opinion to the administrators, Troy's fulfillment of a democratic ideal.

Troy's Voice Approves Democratic Procedure

A GOVERNMENT "of the students, by the students, and for the students" was the aim of Troy's two legislative bodies, the lower one characteristically nicknamed Rep Council. This frequently vociferous group was composed of one member from each homeroom elected in early September.

Such special events as Homecoming and Queen of Courts fell into the capable hands of committee chairmen who drew on the talents of fellow members to combine traditions with innovations to give each activity a bright new flavor. This year's Reps found themselves deeply involved in matters of spring election regulations and put considerable vim into their recommendations when their usefulness was questioned in student opinion columns. They also considered the organizational problems of Topeka West's student body and helped set up standards for both schools to maintain as a new era opens for Topeka's high schools.

Senior Councils

Boys, Girls Take Over Specialized Activities

FRIENDSHIP, leadership, and consciousness of good public relations were qualities in which the Senior Council members took pride. Assisting at Sophomore Induction, Parents' Night, and Open House they became Troy's official student hosts. Senior Girls entertained their "sophomore sisters" at a coke party, giving them the chance to get better acquainted with each other and the upper classmen when the year was young.

Measuring for caps and gowns, promoting the sales of graduation announcements, and assisting with Career Day were mid-winter services shared by both councils. Thus, representing their homerooms in a non-governmental manner, members helped the administrators, faculty, and student body "keep the wheels well oiled."

Staters

'Look-See' at Methods Captures Young Ideas

WITH A common concern in the functioning of government and a desire to know more about it, Kansas Boys and Girls Staters convened enthusiastically at summer conclaves in Wichita and Lawrence. Juniors, representing high schools across the state, were selected on a basis of a sincere interest in governmental operations as well as activity records and scholastic qualifications.

Delegates participated in simulated workings on local, state, and national levels by joining political parties and then campaigning for and electing their own officers. These in turn appointed minor officials who carried out duties in the light of their constituents' wishes. Functions were enacted to scale, providing the State members with a working knowledge of government.

Staters and sponsors agreed that the annual summer event was highly valuable in that it enabled the participants to return for their senior year with a desire to join in student government while appreciably increasing their comprehension of public affairs and civilian responsibilities.

Delight in Far Places Beckons All Dreamers

THE LURE and adventure of travel has captured the eyes of many Trojans. Many followed their own "enchanted pathways" and found themselves in new places, often those they had read and dreamed about.

New York and Washington came alive for more than a hundred juniors and seniors on the Kansas Council of World Affairs Tour. They spent an education-packed week visiting locations of governmental and historical importance in the East and at the same time becoming acquainted with students of like interests.

Red Cross Training Camp gave Steve Lauterbach, Nan Wilkes, and Lynn Lieurance the opportunity to gather valuable ideas on service projects. Senior Girl Scouts of Troop 42 saw south-of-the-border viewpoints in a long-planned-for trip to Mexico City in June. Representing THS, Greg Wingate attended the national Student Council Training Camp in Colorado. He spent a busy week sharing ideas and entering into competition with other students interested in furthering school government.

'Open Heart' Policies Explain Ideas, Ideals

REACHING "hands across the borders and the seas" has helped students all over America to a better understanding of other peoples through friendships. In association with the American Field Service, Trojans have broadened outlooks through representatives much like themselves in age and interests.

Italy and Australia became warm friends through their ambassadors, Elsa Sangalli and Rosemary Skinner, while Troy's own trio brought home fascinating accounts and observances of life abroad. Nancy Dittmore came back from New Zealand in September and Carla Bowman and Jane Schendel rejoined their classmates in January, Carla from Norway, Jane from Germany.

Responsibility for collecting about $1500 fell on the shoulders of the local club and council. Various money-making projects, including the unforgettable faculty-senior basketball clash and Tag Day, have again filled the tills so that a 1961-62 program is assured and enthusiasm remains high.

'TV Guide' Spectacular Initiates Bellamy Fund

TROY'S ANNUAL talent assembly blossomed forth as "An Evening with Television" early last fall. After its speeded-up preparations, a most successful affair kicked off the Bellamy Award Fund drive. Even the cast, the directors, and sponsors heartily boosted ticket sales and city-wide publicity.

As he switched to various TV channels, Master of Ceremonies Mike Wilson let the audience view well-known "live" programs, personalities, and commercials. A huge screen perfected the illusion.

It turned out not only to be a show displaying talented Trojans, but a composite faculty-student production in which fun was made of over-exuberant cure-alls as the perfect foil for the "meat" of the entertainment, solos, combos, puppets, vocal and instrumental trios, acrobatics, and interviews.

Assemblies

Big Auditorium Echoes Leisure Hour Interests

VITALLY important to school spirit and unity, Trojan assemblies offered "something for everyone." Generally scheduled for 10:10 on Friday mornings, programs stressed information, entertainment, professional and student talent, patriotism, devotionals, awards, and pep meetings. Concerts by school music groups, induction of classes and officers, the annual Tag Day, a Simplicity style show for all girls, the celebrations of Queen of Courts and Homecoming, and the Pep Club's programs were all presented "a la assembly."

May could well be called the "Assembly Month" with its special May 18th Bellamy Award program, its Scholarship Day, Athletics Awards and Honor-T presentations, and the Seniors' final performance, Class Day—1961 version. Each assembly was memorable in its variety and its unity. Each opened like a new book with "The Pledge of Allegiance" repeated in unison and then closed with the School Song. Between were the pages of fun, frolic, fantasy, formality, and fair play.

"BREATH of Spring" fashions are shown by Jeannie Thomann, Marilyn Grantham, Shirley Summers, Cheryl Cutright, Miss Diann Smith, Simplicity stylist, Carol Steele, Ann Papin, moderator, Patty Peterson, Sidney Rowland, Lorraine Clouse, Janie Sticher, Mary Weddle.

THE AIR bursts with ideas as Editor Papin and Cathy Clifton discuss art plans and Wendy Fisher and Gay Krionderis study other yearbooks.

Aim of Staff Includes 'The Best of the Best'

WORKING under pressure to meet their four 80-page deadlines, the 1961 yearbook staff aimed constantly at their All-American, A-Plus, and Medalist tradition. Each member accepted his obligation and tackled the job with enthusiasm.

The SUNFLOWER'S intent was to provide the student body with a record of important academic and extra-curricular events. Sentimentally, the seniors should find it full of treasured memories as they finish their last year at Troy.

For staff members it was a combination of doing a service for the school and of learning the many areas of journalism, particularly that of book publishing.

With beginning or advanced credits or on a study hall basis, Journalism-Yearbook provided a close-working group with a stimulating production based on the principles of thorough reporting.

SIXTH Hour strategists Mike McPherson and Buddy Thurston back up Dave McMurray and Janet Sowers.

Scurry—Flurry—Worry Mark Newspapermen

LAST MINUTE deadlines, busy, clicking typewriters, the whirl of news gathering—all of vital importance if The WORLD was to appear each Friday. This weekly publication, serving as a link between students and school activities, carried pertinent editorials, sports stories, timely features, and up-to-the-minute articles which answered Who? What? Where? When? Why? How?

Busy with their varied duties, the fourteen staffers took pictures, designed pages, sold ads, and wrote copy, always alert for the possible "scoop." Editor Miller both "wielded the whip" and did a proper amount of the proverbial "back-patting."

Page makeup and headline setting were jobs for boys enrolled in vocational printing, and on Wednesdays and Thursdays traffic between 219 and 220 was constant as students and advisers conferred.

Fifth hour on Fridays displayed the final product of a busy week. Through their newspaper, students, faculty, home readers, and advertisers were kept aware of school functions and curriculum developments. Knowing this was being accomplished, The WORLD staff was satisfied that time was well spent.

LAST WEEK'S trial-and-error method becomes this week's trial-and-better plan at staff meetings. Johnson, Winkelman, Halloran, Freeland, Burnau, Seagraves, Chief Miller, Kelly, Wellborn, Knight, Fetter, Slawson, Eberhart, and Davis.

NO TIME for laggards as stories are in the making. Roy Miller, Aaron Davis, Bonnie Knight, Ann Fetter.

FINE POINTS of sports' heads get a going-over by Chief Slawson, Pat Burnau, and Allan Eberhart.

MAKING out the assignment sheet begins the week's duties for editors Wellborn, Freeland, and Seagraves.

BIG DEAL—Ad man Larry Kelly talks over layout plans with Mary Halloran and Rita Winkelman.

Cadets

Workers Step Through In Super-Performance

DEPENDABLE, regardless of weather, hours, or situations, Trojan cadets were the epitome of achievement through co-operation. This willing group and its sponsors expected nothing in return except the satisfaction of seeing a job well done and events well ordered and inconspicuously manned.

Bundled in scarves, gloves, and heavy coats, some were on the spot to punch tickets and distribute programs for the football games at Moore Bowl. Other workers, attired in the Trojan black and gold, were stationed at the Western Avenue entrance to handle basketball admissions. During countless minutes still other responsible cadets perched on stools and squeezed into tiny booths to sell tickets before home games or auditorium events. Greeting the public in an efficient, friendly manner was the core of their training and determination.

Usher Club Well Trained Greeters Smile and Say 'Hello'

"THIS WAY, please," was the smiling greeting of Troy's service club "without officers, meetings, dues, or minutes." Colorful formals and dark dress suits, pretty hairdos and polished shoes were the uniforms of Topeka High's official hosts to playgoers and operetta fans. In smart tailored clothes they also seated hundreds of teachers at the fall K.S.T.A. meeting, giving up hours of precious vacation time to do a service to school and community.

Members arrived early and held their posts until the event was well under way, showing a dignified, efficient front to the public, all the while enjoying the thrill of the last moments before "curtain going up," was signaled by dimming lights.

Workers Execute Tasks; Revel in Cultural Air

BOOK LOVERS were given the opportunity to channel their interests into a specialized field by learning methods, studying book lists, and investigating library work as a possible career. Membership included proctors and library assistants. Although the club met only on call, their interest was held for five days each week as they worked among books of all types. Visits to other city libraries were made as field projects while committees served each month in keeping bulletin boards up to date.

Two out-of-town trips included a First District Student Assistants meeting at Bishop Meige High School in Kansas City and the state convention of student librarians in Emporia. The annual "Hanging of the Greens" introduced the holiday season for both members and the student body. The Great Hall, decorated in illuminated silhouettes and the traditional tree and fireplace festooning, lent itself to seasonal festivity as members sang carols, ate popcorn, and arranged decorations. Next year's proctors were entertained at a spring tea and briefed as to duties, service opportunities, and rewards expected.

"A PLACE for everything and everything in its place." Marilyn Rasch and Connie Lance learn modern systems of classification.

"DOWN WITH your head, up with your heart . . ." Madame Arcati fascinates Edith and Ruth with tales of her many experiences.

"YOU CALLED me a guttersnipe!" Ruth and Charles revive last night's argument.

Medium's Perception Evokes Lively Ghosts

CHILL WINDS, invigorating seances, and a mysterious voice audible to only one person, created the atmosphere for the Junior-Senior production of Noel Coward's hilarious farce about the occult. As a result of strange events, Elvira, the ghost of Charles Condomine's first wife, appeared on a "return trip." Her spirited visit eventually resulted in the death of the second wife, Ruth, who later also "came back."

From then on, Madame Arcati was employed to rid the husband of his celestial harem. Their bickering, vase throwing, and petty jealousies made dematerialization most desirable. After many gropings among ways and means, the flamboyant medium discovered that Edith, the maid, was the bridge to complete the return trip to the unknown.

Effective lighting, sound, and costuming, a realistic setting, and competent directing made the plot believable and kept the audience attentive as in a noisy, wire-rigged climax the ghostly wives "tore up the place" while the unfettered Charles sarcastically assured them that "Parting is such sweet sorrow!"

UNAWARE of Elvira's shadowy presence, Charles and Mrs. Bradman discuss recent disturbing events.

"I AM prepared to swear that there is someone psychic in this room," states the exotic medium, her trance ended. Dr. and Mrs. Bradman, Ruth, and Charles look on with mixed emotions.

'South Pacific'

True Love, Happy Talk Recall Island's Charm

TWO FULL houses and "standing room only" signs testified to the unprecedented success of the music department's operatic offering of Rogers and Hammerstein's well-loved story of World War II. Its two romantic themes were based on the depth of true love. Pretty young Nurse Nellie Forbush and the sophisticated French planter, Emile DeBecque, suggested the problems of age and background differences, while the love of Liat and Lt. Cable was eclipsed by racial incompatibilities and heart-break.

Supporting the leads were such colorful characters as Luther Billis, a well-meaning Seabee, the shrewd and avaricious Bloody Mary, and an array of military personnel and islanders. Such songs as the spirited "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Out of My Hair," the sensitive "This Nearly Was Mine," the romantic "Younger Than Springtime," the mystical "Bali Hai," and the rousing "There Is Nothing Like a Dame" gave obvious pleasure to cast and audience.

Filled with color and life, joy and sorrow, South Pacific had all the ingredients of a "smash hit." As a performance by high school talent it added another "Oscar" to Troy's enviable record.

"SONNY, put your money on my Honey Bun," sings Nellie in the finale of the Thanksgiving Follies.

THE BOYS hear Billis' tale of feminine charms as he sings that There Is Nothin' Like a Dame.

"YOU'VE got to have a dream," explains Bloody Mary to Liat and Lieutenant Cable in Happy Talk.

Troy Becomes Festive; Dances in Gay Whirl

SPOTLIGHTING the holiday season, the closing social event of 1960 kept interest at top levels from the moment the staff was announced until the last tired celebrant turned homeward.

Through song, dance, and dialogue, the program audience toured a fantasy kingdom where a Genie tried to please his king by finding for him the Christmas Spirit. Then as stage lights dimmed, all eyes turned to the center aisle to watch the royal couples move toward the stage. Amid appropriate fanfare King John Atkinson crowned his lady, Queen Sara Davis, and their short but enchanted reign began.

The coronation over, the royal court moved to the ballrooms to receive the acclaim of hundreds of delighted subjects. The atmosphere relaxed as greetings were exchanged, refreshments sipped, and dancing feet took up the rhythm of The Counts and "all waxed merry."

SURROUNDED by glitter and tinfoil, Debbie Craver, Glenda Huntsman, Jean Henderson, Janice Clark, Susan Boylan, Mike Davis devise a gymnasium-ballroom change.

BEGINNING a "night to remember," Bill Arganbright escorts Marci Furman (Seaman) into the "Mystic Magic."

SELECTED by the entire student body, the All School Party Royalty reigned at the most important social event of the school year. The group typified Troy at its most festive—bright, carefree, well-dressed.

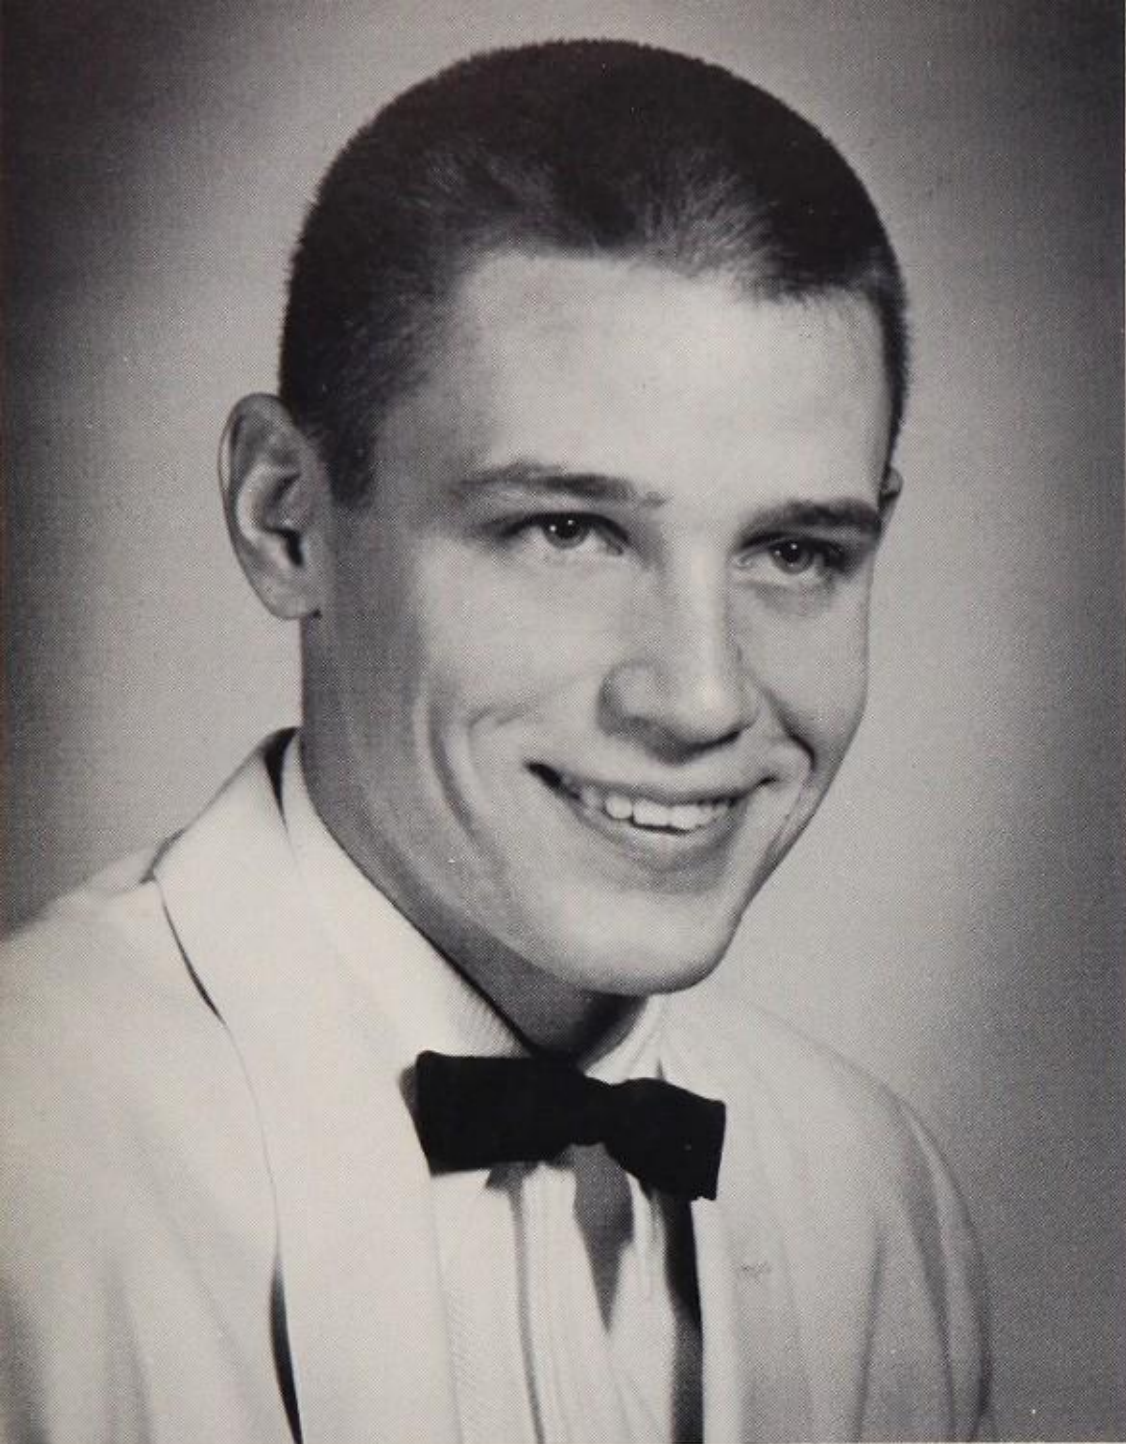

The annual program-party-dance brought together members of all three classes and their sponsors and special guest for an evening filled with "The Mystic Magic of Christmas." Seated are Andrea Gresser, Ellizabeth Fink, Veronica McCord, and Beverly Bailey. Standing are Skip Gladfelter, Tom Magerkuth, Joe Anderson, and Dave Crandall, the group traditionally Seniors.

HISTORY—written in stone near Lake Kanopolis.

Organizations

CULTURE on the Kansas plains had its birth in the crude but expressive figures carved on the sandstone outcroppings of the geologic turmoil of prehistoric eras. Developing together, the Indian tribes recorded their ways of life, their beliefs, their love of nature. Today, Trojans interest themselves in the arts of expression, philanthropy, and investigation and take advantage of combining the best of social living with the joys of human experiences, the cultivating of civilization's enveloping "wrap of decency."

SIMPLICITY and functionalism enjoy a rebirth in today's speeded-up living.

Science Club

New Expansion Stirs Interest in Wide Area

INTELLIGENT, ambitious, and curious Trojans rallied under the banner of "Science" to explore in their out-of-class hours the expanding areas of medicine, research, experimentation, and related fields. Lectures, movies, and student and professional demonstrations highlighted meetings and kept members alert to current trends and methods. Most members showed intense interest in career possibilities and found Topeka's professional men and women eager to assist them.

Field trips included the Math and Science Day at Kansas University and a conducted tour of the Du Pont cellophane plant at Tecumseh in late March. Local laboratories were visited in small groups and members made aware of the variety of aspects on home grounds.

Encouraging individual investigation and reasoning, club members promoted entries in the annual Topeka Science Fair April 7-9. In-club competition was spirited and resulted in better prepared displays and demonstrations. Attention all year was directed to the National Science Fair held in Kansas City May 11-13. Many attended in the hope of strengthening next year's club program and promoting Trojan interest in science.

Math Club

Interest Quickens as Intellect Gets Workout

TO PROMOTE the idea that mathematics is not only interesting, vital, and necessarily demanding, but that it can offer creative pleasures, Mu Alpha Theta met bi-monthly for stimulating programs and sociability. Speakers from nearby universities brought members up to date on trends and implications, and encouraged those so inclined to explore careers in mathematics.

In its second year as a chapter of a national organization, student programs were heavily stressed, and practical appliances and problems challenged members into out-of-class achievements. By learning how to interpret today's educational demands and possibilities, the realization became apparent that "Mathematics possesses not only truth, but supreme beauty" and is "a joy forever."

Air of Calm Pervades Unusual Club Sessions

THE CHESS board is the world; the pieces are the phenomena of the universe . . . . Whether one thinks of this absorbing game in a philosophic manner or purely as entertainment, he is sure to do so quietly when there is a round of competition. Concentration and patience are the keys to membership in Troy's Chess Club.

Intricate rules governed every "attack" and each "defense." Well-planned strategies and forethought were victorious over carelessness and hasty counter attacks. The challenge of reasoning and genuine contemplation attracted many to what is certainly Troy's most unusual organization, and one which enjoyed bi-weekly meetings in Room 321.

Language Club

Outside Interest Adds Practice to Learnings

HISTORIES and customs of other countries were explored by this trio of related clubs through an informal and relatively social approach to Francais, Latinus, and Espanol. Meeting in groups where games, contests, and conversation made the foreign tongue have natural appeal, they profited greatly by the extra-curricular activities. Spanish Club's dinner party at La Siesta gave its members an authentic touch of life in Mexico. Latin Club's unique classical initiation highlighted a busy year, while French Club members turned attention to the dramatic possibilities of familiar stories and songs.

French Club's annual Mardi Gras brought members of all three clubs together in the traditional spirit of pageantry and gay abandon. Then, in a return courtesy, Spanish Club entertained with their Fiesta which featured a "fabulous B-16 pinata." In so expanding the present-day accelerated interest in language study, members and sponsors lifted emphasis above the classroom level.

Thespians

Tradition of 'Theatre' Captures All Efforts

"THE APPLAUSE, delight, and wonder of our stage" have all been experienced by the members of Troupe 19, National Thespians. Dedicated actors, staff and crew members, and directors were rewarded by recognition of both accomplishments and the acceptance of the "Spirit of Thespis" in its age-old interpretations. Members were on call all year for tryout duties and constantly broadened their own knowledge by effective study of the theatre arts.

In late May new members were welcomed at a supper party followed by the highlight of the club year, a program of original skits and the annual "star" awards, fitting acknowledgement of dramatic interests, and faithful adherence to duty.

Quill and Scroll

Similar Aims Flavor Journalstic Endeavors

UNITED in the common interest of furthering the practices of good journalism and by meeting scholastic qualifications, the ten "old" and fifteen "new" members of the International Society of High School Journalists were an active honorary group. They backed school publications and became better informed themselves of possible careers in this widening field.

Financial needs were met through the sales of book protectors and candies. Members kicked off the campaign which started the other organizations to contribute to a fund to finance Dr. Theilmann's summer trip to Russia, an NEA-sponsored tour to study school problems.

New members were welcomed at a Washington's Birthday potluck supper, and as highlight of the year were initiated in mid-March at the four-school ceremonies under K.U.'s sponsorship. The program and dinner joined regional Quill and Scrollers in common interests and the exchange of ideas and methods, all aimed at adding more life and color to school publications.

National Forensic League

Debaters Join Forces To Offer Competition

"OLD" by club standards, "active" by any measurement, Topeka High's twenty-six-year-old debate club entered its second quarter-century with both dignity and enthusiasm. As one of the oldest chapters of F.N.L. in the Mid-West, its annually sponsored Invitational Tournament attracted more than two hundred participants.

All phases of the event, from invitations and room scheduling to purchasing trophies and "being perfect hosts", were carried on efficiently in the weeks before the tourney. Selection and training of judges, arranging for timekeepers, and devising methods of tabulation were among the duties accepted by the entire membership. Guests enthusiastically said "Perfect!" and earnestly meant it.

The annual banquet was arranged for members, parents, and special guests in late April. Highlight of the program was official recognition of the 1960-61 debate achievements through the awards of letters and special certificates and pins by Sponsor Hill.

"THIS is how we took it"—Ken Wilke gives Don Wakeman the lowdown on trophy winning.

Safety Club

Teens Study Problems; Support Driving Rules

"WITHIN the next year, the average American citizen has one chance out of 5,000 of being killed by a motor vehicle, and one chance out of 125 of being injured." Such shocking statistics spurred Topeka High students to more determined efforts in a field crying for large scale publicity. Posters urging "safety first" were widely distributed throughout school and community.

The Governor's Safety Convention in the fall called up club members to act as hosts, and the April state meeting in Wichita drew a strong representation to support Queen Nancy Egy.

The city-wide Youth Court was supported in all its efforts to control speeding, instruct in law interpretation, and penalize offenders. According to recent statistics it is felt that the Court was responsible for the reduction of nearly 50 percent in youth traffic violations in relation to population and automobile increases. "An educated driver behind each wheel" has literally become the club's goal.

SAFE AND SOUND programs were devised by Officers Bowman and Gresser.

Brotherhood, Service, Goodwill Spark Goal

SERVICE-MINDED, THS Red Crossers worked closely with the Chapter House to carry on the spirit of donating time and abilities for which the organization is well-known. Cooperating in the world-wide Chest and Arts programs, members were able to view the art and handcraft displays from many nations, thus combining international and local interests.

Homecoming introduced two annual projects when club and council members worked on a float and sold "mums" at the game. Acting on Civil Defense patrols, volunteers were stationed in the halls to direct the student body during drills. At Christmas, baskets were filled and delivered to needy families, and groups took part in the holiday events of caroling and wrapping packages at both the State and Veterans Hospitals.

GOOD WILL and good collections result in good times for Wendy Fisher, Trish Kennedy, Gay Krionderis, and Steve Lauterbach as they fill Christmas baskets at the Chapter House.

Key Club

Civic Responsibilities Furnish Service 'Keys'

BUILDING good citizens and competent leaders for better communities was the chief goal set by the Kiwanis-sponsored service club. The combined attention of both business and professional men of the city strengthened the understanding of local problems and broadened the career interests of Key Club members. At the regular Friday morning sessions speakers and programs furnished both entertainment and timely information. An authentic sand-painting artist turned attention to an ancient form of art which is having a current revival.

The 1960-61 student telephone directory was prepared in October as a major service project to THS, and profits from its sale financed the sophomore handbook. Social life centered on the hayrack ride where members and dates enjoyed in traditional manner Kansas' crisp fall evenings. Elected in March 1960 as Lieutenant Governor for Topeka's district, Robin Smith helped guide the local group. A large delegation attended the state convention last March where Andrea Gresser was their honored candidate for Queen.

Girls Emphasize Unity In World-wide Group

"PEACE AND UNITY, freedom and brotherhood, these we have set to be our goals" are the words to a Y-Teen song, and the goals are kept in mind by the girls who make up this active organization. After-school meetings at the YWCA included programs by exchange students and informative speakers from florists to therapists.

The Ideal Nursing Home was "adopted" by Y-Teens who enthusiastically made favors and gifts for special holidays and patients' birthdays. Other projects included caroling near Christmastime and raising funds through cookie sales in the main hall at Troy. Several members attended the out-of-state conference at St. Louis where this world-wide organization of teenage girls promoted understanding through common interests at home and abroad.

Hi-Y

Broad Interest Areas Attract Membership

COMBINING service with personal growth and recreation, Hi-Y boys furthered their Christian goals and understandings. A stimulating program in the fall took members on a complete tour of the city police department. A laboratory technician, Lt. Feaker, and Chief Wells gave up-to-date information on aspects of police activity. In connection with future prospects of military service, films on the Air Force Academy, Annapolis, and West Point gave pertinent information on a timely subject.

Prejudices were examined through several programs on current misunderstandings, one by a Topeka minister who discussed the controversial "beatnik generation." March activities stemmed from interest in the annual Hi-Y Legislature held in Topeka where bills were introduced that interpreted youth's views of present-day problems.

The desire for recreation and service to school inspired a hayrack ride and a varsity featuring door prizes and a "Parade of Bands," while the annual spring overnight was an award for a busy year.

Business Clubs

Adequate Preparation Is Immediate Concern

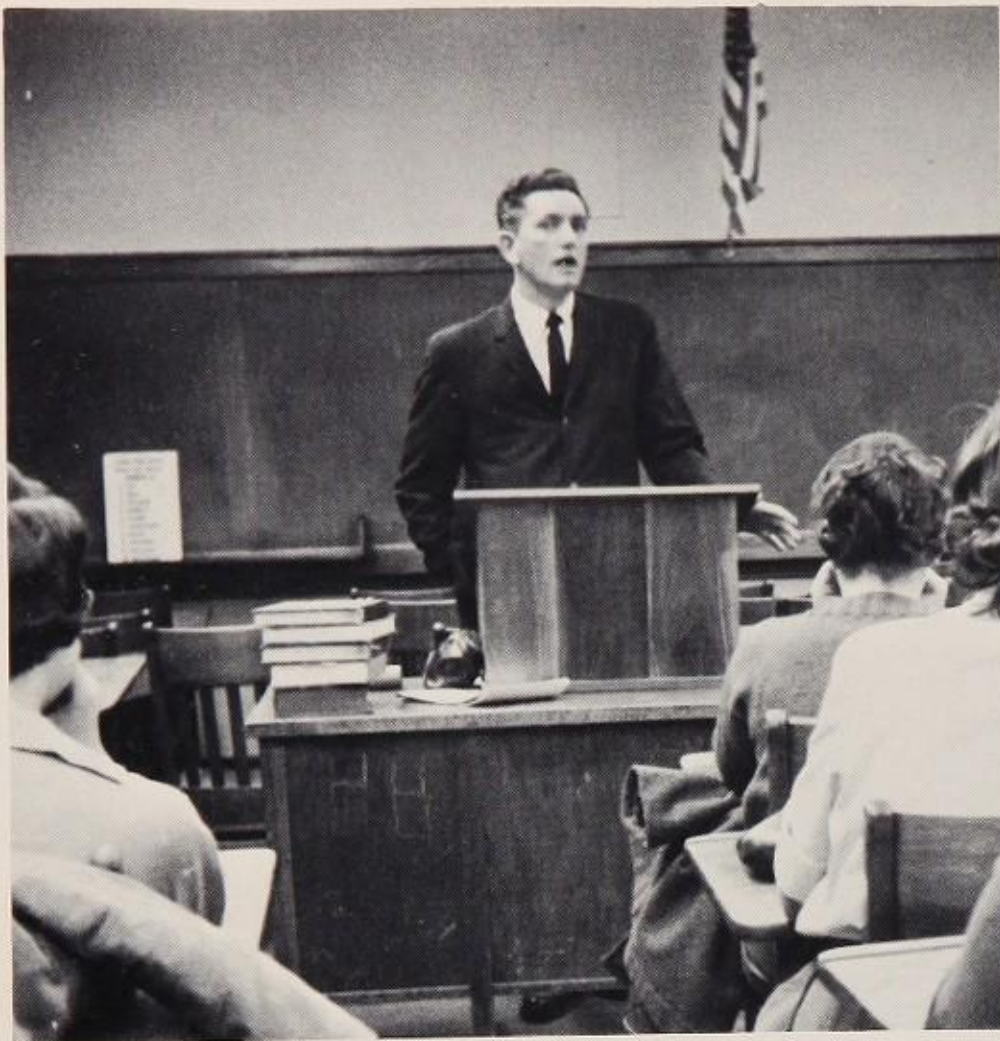

PUTTING into practice what they learned in the various business classes, Topeka High's two branches of the Distributive Education Clubs of Kansas participated in many annual state contests and walked off with a fair share of awards for their excellence. Local meetings included speakers and demonstrations which pointed up all facets of the business world from appearances to apprenticeships.

Future Nurses Service, Satisfaction Point Up Career Plans

WILLING to devote patience, skill, and energy to the ever-widening field of medicine, girls became active members of Future Nurses to learn more about their chosen profession. Volunteer work at the Kansas Neurological Institute and the "adoption" of St. Vincent's orphanage supplemented programs and demonstrations.

Acquainting members with medical phases, doctors, administrators, nurses, technicians, and radiologists provided informative meetings. Field trips included a tour of Forbes Air Force Base and the Providence Hospital and Sisters of Charity School of Nursing in Kansas City. With the help of the Shawnee County Medical Auxiliary, the group had strong professional backing. Its emphasis on the importance of thorough training and the rewards of personal satisfaction helped many to answer the question, "Is medicine MY career?"

Future Teachers

Group Shows Concern For Tomorrow's Youth

GIVING of services and capabilities in the teaching profession attracted many students to Troy's Dewitt Clinton Chapter of the Future Teachers of America. These members shared the desire to impart knowledge to others and to guide them toward a better understanding of subject matter and world attitudes.

Ushering for the Kansas State Teachers Convention, they met their first service project with success. The AFS exchange students presented programs and were questioned concerning schools abroad, the courses offered, homework assigned, and student-teacher relations. Practice teachers and other qualified speakers shared experiences and stimulated further interest in general and specialized fields.

With a new realization of the responsibility a teacher has to students and the effect proper attitudes can have on their lives, they prepared themselves for the necessary training following graduation. Through such dedication, Troy's club members began to acquire the understandings needed when they become the Late 1960's Teachers of America.

Future Homemakers

Seeing, Experimenting Stress 'Women's Place'

TROHOMA, Troy's chapter of the national organization of FHA, stressed extra-curricular activities that bolstered class work in home economics as well as the natural feminine interest in homemaking. Speakers, demonstrations, field trips, and social functions brought into focus new trends in home decoration, flower arrangements, foreign cookery, and the combined accomplishments that label a girl a "perfect hostess."

Members attended the state convention held in Topeka in March and were guests at Washburn's Food Fair. In late February the club sponsored a coffee party following the Simplicity style show where mothers, teachers, and Miss Dianne Smith were special guests and the subtle arts of homemaking were practiced.

PLANS for the March state convention are discussed by Beverly Bailey, Jean Loughmiller, Patty Peterson, and Nancy Guthrie.

New Techniques Stress Beauty, Grace; Health

UNIQUE in its membership requirements and purposes, Troy's "water babies" had a swimming pool for a club room and brought their meetings to order with a big splash. At weekly sessions the order of business was practice, play, synchronization, and finally, ballet movements. Strict rules kept attendance regular.

Climaxing the year's activities was the annual water show, this year's theme being "Fathom Fantasy." Portraying different types of fish, swimmers displayed graceful techniques and unusual color combinations. Comedy diving was added by members of the boys' swim team, and former club president, Norma Purvis, performed a solo number. Growing interest in this newest of the school's physical activities added a new field to career and leisure outlooks.

Letter Winners Unite For Pleasure, Service

BLACK letters and numerals on gold sweaters or striking black and gold jackets identified the top Trojan athletes as lettermen. They represented the competitive athletic sports in an exclusive club that recognized their many hours of training and the acknowledgement of good sportsmanship on the field.

Following the anticipated "welcome", new members were put to work on numerous service projects. Lettermen tended the concession stand during the basketball season and used the profits for equipment or improvements that would benefit all athletes. In the fall they treated themselves to the annual hayrack ride, and in the spring they entertained the coaches and their wives at a dinner party. Sponsorship of a varsity and the support of various school fund drives rounded out a year of effective fellowship.

RESOURCE development of Mid-America's vast and fertile lands have produced deep-rooted strengths in mineral, crop, and livestock wealth. Raw Nature had first to be understood, then controlled, trained, and finally made to support a growing population. There is "gold" everywhere, in the sunshine, the yellow wheat, the tall corn, the rolling pastures, the glowing sunflowers. Physical resources have been tapped today as sportsmanship and stamina have shown Trojan athletes in profitable and steady growth through competition.

'Best' of Troy Explodes Wherever Pepsters Go

ABOUNDING with energy and radiating contagious smiles, the A and B-Team cheerleaders boosted school spirit with their limitless enthusiasm in assemblies, parades, pep rallies, "Little People" skits, and halftime events.

New techniques were perfected by the A-Team members at a summer clinic in Dallas. On this annual trip there were opportunities to meet and exchange ideas with other cheerleaders from the Midwest under expert tutelage in "crowd psychology."

Wherever they went, in school or on trips, these twelve girls represented the "best of Troy" as they backed athletic events, bid farewell to Bellamy delegates, sent off State-bound debate squads, or introduced prize-winning publications staffs. Theirs was "To do and TRY for Troy!"

Black—Gold Wearers Keep Spirits Bouncing

SINGING the school song and propelling the chant of "Hoy, Hoy, Mighty Troy" high into the rafters and across the brightly lighted field, peppy Trojan girls added color and volume to all athletic events. They also backed school spirit and departmental accomplishments by prompting assemblies where Trojan affairs were lifted in an even, fast tempo.

Regular Pep's neat black uniforms provided striking background for Honor Pep girls in their smart white blazers, new this year. The girls in the white "T" synchronized pompon routines and made special formations for the Homecoming and Queen of Courts royalty.

Girls' Pep sponsored a drive for clothing and school supplies which were sent to further educational work in Africa. They also supported varsity activities, going all out in the spring for their annual "Western Roundup" with Miss Kitty and the girls. Their many efforts were material evidence of orderly enthusiasm, school spirit, and more than anything—TROJAN PEP.

Spontaneous Backers Add Vim to Victories

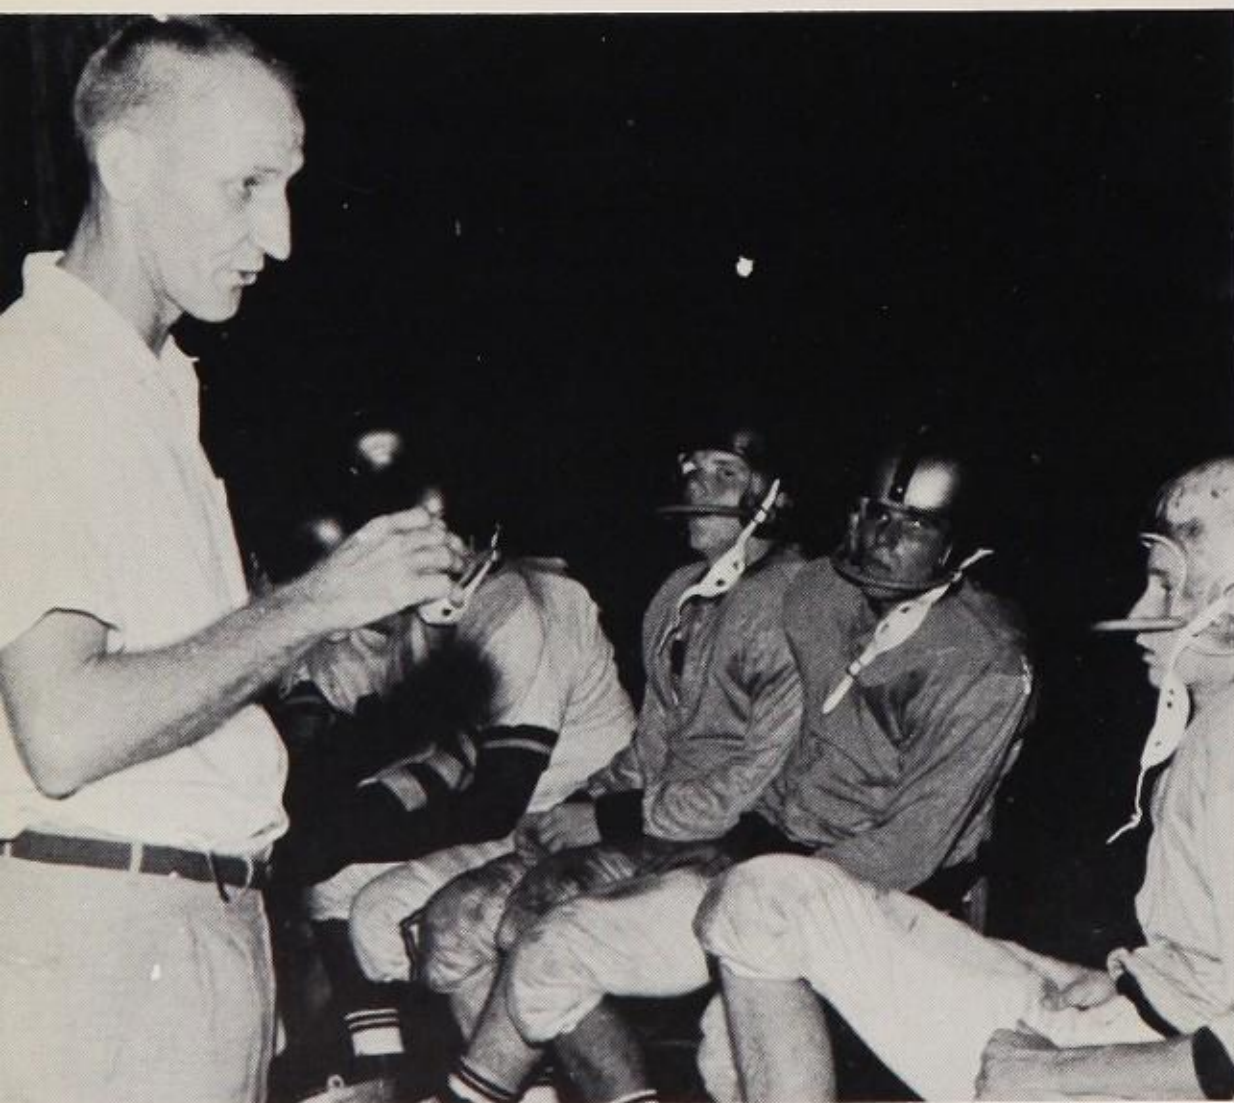

SPIRITED and jubilant, Topeka High's version of an all-male cheering squad had its ups and downs in matters of organization but succeeded to be "airborne" much of the time. With their booming voices, this enthusiastic group contributed unpredictable shouts of encouragement to athletic contests and added the balance needed to develop a representative all-school backing of pepsters. A loosely knit organization, it never-the-less developed considerable support for homecoming activities, promoted a varsity during the basketball season, and added humor to assemblies with the traditional take-off on the girl cheerleaders.

Trips to out-of-town games were arranged, and non-allocated funds in their treasury helped cover the bus fare of members. Not wishing to appear too "short" in matters of rules, minutes, and committee reports, this nucleus of organized enthusiasm insisted that it was "long" on Trojan loyalty.

AS COMPLETELY relaxed as an officer can be, Veep Atkinson "wastes" no time with his basket.

Explosive Grid Squad Posts Record of 7-2

TROY'S GRIDIRON team for 1960 was a thrilling mixture of volatile breakaways, cliff-hanging finishes, and come-from-behind victories. Seven games were not decided until the fourth quarter. On two different occasions the winning touchdown didn't come until only seconds remained.

Highlighting the successes were victories over Wichita SE, Wyandotte, and Wichita E. As a result, the Trojans attained a final rating of third in the state behind Lawrence and Independence plus a share in the Sunflower League crown.

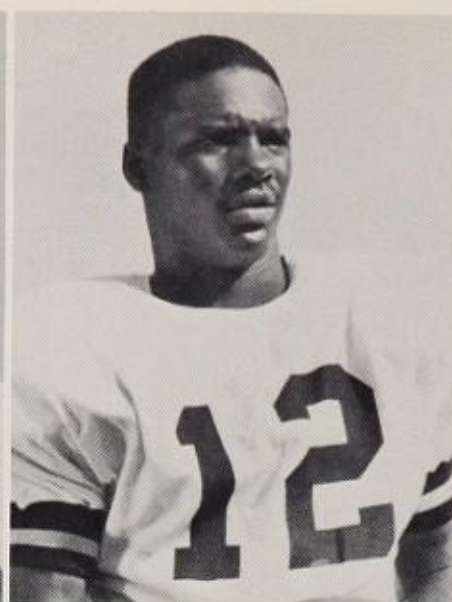

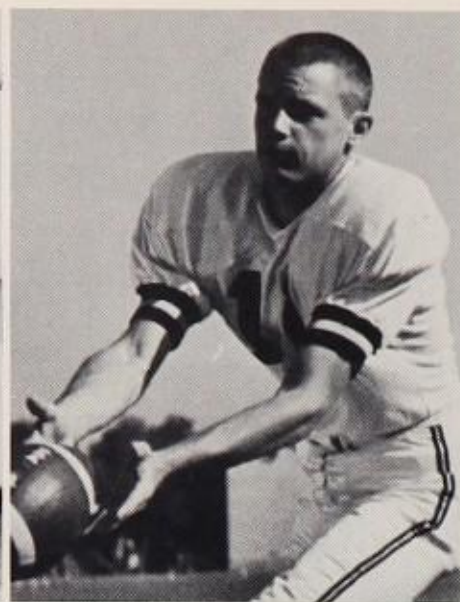

Cross-town rival Highland Park was downed in the season's opener. The first time that Troy got hands on the ball this year Dave Crandall returned a punt 77 yards for the touchdown. Topeka's strong second unit played enough of the time to add scores by Steve Norsworthy and Joel Lawson.

Close Finishes Reflect Successful Campaign

The following week, Crandall had a 68-yard punt return for six points, but Shawnee Mission North completed four passes in the last 20 seconds to pull out a breathless 14-13 win with only two seconds on the clock when the winning points were scored.

Taking on the perennial state champions, Lawrence, the Trojans almost managed to stop the Lions' much publicized winning streak. An 81-yard gallop by Bob Kimball through the middle of the line proved to be the keystone for the decisive points. Both Topeka's TD's in the 19-13 loss came on passes from quarterback John Atkinson to halfback Larry Woolridge.

At Washington the following week, the Trojans exploded for three touchdowns in the final quarter to overcome a determined Wildcat team. An 80-yard sprint by Woolridge put Troy in front, and the final clincher came when John Woody picked off a pass by Washington's quarterback Terry Campbell and lateraled to Loyce Bailey. Aerials from Atkinson to Shinn and Nunley accounted for two other touchdowns.

Aggressive Defenses Spark Rugged Action

Overcoming a great performance by Wichita East's quarterback John Woolf, Topeka managed a 20-19 success story. Woolf threw a 70-yard TD pass and then ran 84 yards for another score. Woolridge notched two touchdowns, one on an 86-yard pass from Atkinson and then crossed from the nine in the fourth period to chalk up the winning points.

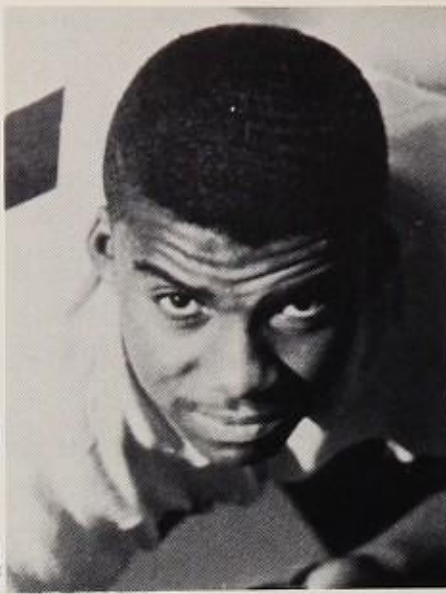

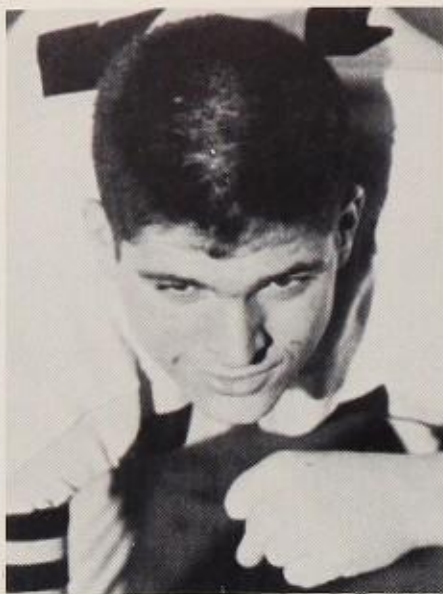

Defense marked the tough Wyandotte game as both teams put up stout barriers. Troy emerged on top by virtue of an intercepted pass and runback by Crandall. The other score in the 12-6 victory was a result of a 61-yard pass from Atkinson to Woolridge. The win put THS on top in the Sunflower League standings.

Then on a wet, chilly night, the Trojans knocked off intra-city rival Hayden 22-0. The game's high point was a 20-yard field goal by sophomore Bill Williams. The inconsistency of extra-point kicking again appeared to be a noticeable handicap to perfect scoring.

'11 to 22' Pass Clicks For Nine Touchdowns

For three-quarters of the next game, Shawnee Mission East put up a rugged battle before Troy broke loose for 19 points in the final period. After being thwarted for most of the game by fumbles and penalties, a pass in the legendary Atkinson-to-Woolridge beeline put Topeka in front for the first time 12-7. Steve Ward intercepted a pass for a touchdown that clinched the win and a share in the Sunflower League championship.

The Trojans netted their sixth win in a row by defeating Wichita East 19-13. All of Topeka's touchdowns were scored by Woolridge on passes from Atkinson. With the score tied at 13-13 and just 17 seconds left in the game, Woolridge grabbed a pass that had been deflected by a Wichita East defender and raced into the end zone, adding another hair-breath victory to the 1960 season.

B-Team Charts Future; Sophs Unveil Stamina

ALTHOUGH this season's record was only 1-3-1, the Trojan B-Team exhibited encouraging signs for next season's record. Coached by Mel Villeme, the "Bees" gained valuable experience even though some will move over to the new high school, Topeka West. They held their own against Sunflower League foes, beating Shawnee Mission East, tying Shawnee Mission North, and losing only to Wyandotte. Both other losses were close games, 6-7 to Lawrence, and 0-6 to Highland Park.

The most encouraging aspect for next year was the powerful play of Troy's sophomore team. The Sophs, under Coach Roger Ginavan, ran up large scores against opponents, suffering a lone loss to arch-rival Lawrence 6-19. Shutout victories over Hayden and SM-East and triumphs over SM-North and Seaman brought the record of Trojan sophomore teams over the past eight years to a total of thirty-nine wins to seven losses. Over the same period of time they have established an enviable record of twelve wins and four losses in Sunflower League competition.

FULLBACK Steve Norsworthy leads a strong second unit as he smashes into Highland Park tacklers.

Annual Event Places Emphasis on Tradition

CLIMAXING the excitement of the opening weeks of school, the entire student body cooperated in the annual homecoming activities on October 14. The afternoon spotlight turned on the Trojan stage where an assembly preceded the introduction of the trio of Homecoming Queen candidates. Nominated by the football team, she had been chosen in home-room elections but her identity was still a secret.

Larry Callahan serenaded the royalty with "Younger Than Springtime" and the girls were escorted down the long center aisle and into shiny new convertibles for the parade through the downtown area. The band, colorful floats, and marching pep clubs made the occasion a bright spot in Topeka High's book of memories.

The football game, a series of hard-fought plays which ended in the upset of third-ranked Wichita Southeast, brought out a record number of Trojans, grads, parents, and friends. In traditional ceremonies, Kathy Crothers was crowned at the half-time and her reign continued through the last half of the game and on through the "Victory Varsity" celebration which followed.

"MY HEART Stood Still" drifted through the hushed stadium at halftime as the glowing Homecoming royalty of 1960 approached the grandstand in a parade of shiny convertibles. The stars in the evening skies were no brighter than the eyes of the three lovely girls, one of whom the crowd waited to give special acclaim.

Wearing smart dark suits, attendants Marilyn Grantham and Linda Sawyer were escorted through the Honor Pep arch by Dave Thompson and Greg Wingate. There was the tenseness of expectancy as the music drifted away.

Then, with the roll of drums, Her Majesty came graciously through the guard of honor. Lights dimmed, and the THS band set the background as Marvin Kuehn escorted her to her throne. Through the quiet air came the clear words of Superintendent Godwin as he officially pronounced Kathy Crothers 1960 Homecoming Queen, and her joyous reign began.

The third "moment of glory" followed when the Queen and her attendants occupied seats of honor at the varsity, and each was presented with a souvenir to make the football season and the event that symbolizes annually a high point in Trojan Spirit.

Hot and Cold Streaks Affect Cage Records

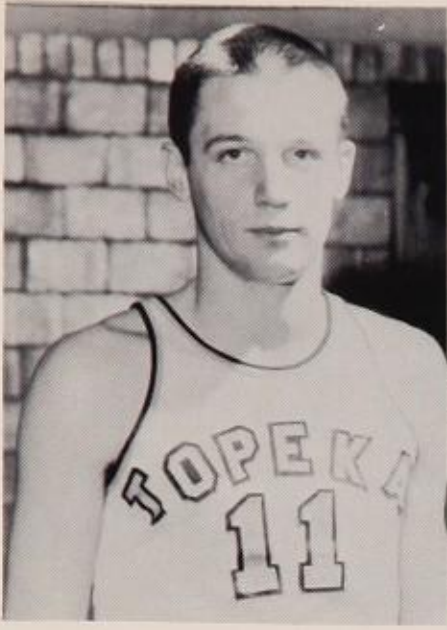

COACH Jack Dean's cage squad ended a streak-filled season with a record of eleven wins against eight defeats. A fine start chalked up five of the first seven games; then a loss to Highland Park touched off a losing streak of five contests and dropped the Trojans to third place in the Sunflower League's coveted roster.

A come-from-behind victory over Washington started the incentive for a drive which picked up steam until the finals of the Regionals where a ball-controlling Washburn Rural staved off a late Trojan rally to preserve a close 49-47 win. At one time or another during the season, eleven different players answered the whistle as Coach Dean shuffled his lineup in quest of a winning combination.

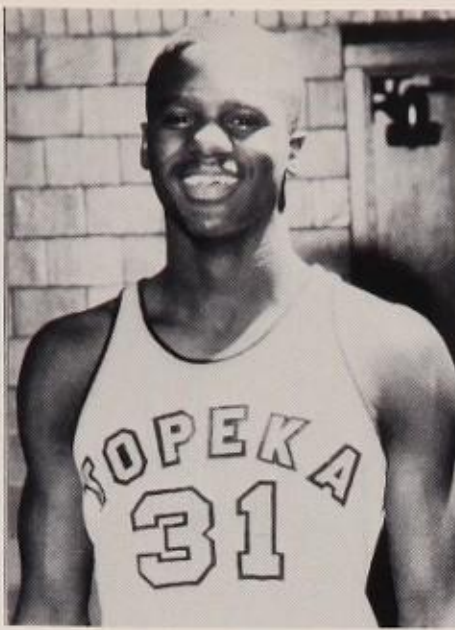

Hopes for a strong squad next year are high with Bailey and Nelson back along with three other lettermen. Several members of a strong B-team will add depth.

Top B-Team and Sophs Await Future Honors

RUNNING up a successful record of ten victories and six losses, the Trojan B-team trained several promising prospects for next year's varsity squad and boasted a number of lettermen. Coach Alberg used a two-platoon system for his players as both groups demonstrated ability to turn back the opposition. The Bees embarked on a winning streak of their own midway of the campaign that lasted for six games.

Troy's sophomore hopefuls finished with a good showing under Coach Ginavan. Their 6-2 was marred only by Washburn Rural and Highland Park. While there is potential talent on this squad, returning varsity and B-team lettermen cast an imposing shadow.

THS Charmer Receives Symbolic 'Key to City'

"WOE IS ME" cried the Knight of Highland, and the annual pageant was underway. A talent-packed skit displayed high comedy as the Red and Green's knight met Troy's Knight in Golden Armor. The assembly program culminated in the presentation of three charming girls who were candidates for Queen of Courts.

Then at halftime on February 25, Her Majesty's reign opened with proper fanfare. The rafters echoed with long applause as the royal party took their places and Queen Margot was crowned with a sparkling diadem and received the community's tribute, a symbolic key.

Following a decisive victory on the basketball court, the triumphal rule was highlighted by the presentation of autographed mementos of the occasion at the annual varsity.

A KEY to the City is given to Queen Margot by Mayor Ed Camp. Carolyn Barrett and Principal Weaver smilingly step back for the presentation.

INTENT on the scoreboard, Coach Zollars of Washington joins David McMurray, Coach Irwin, Preston Hoyt, and Scott Linscott.

Regular Improvement Garners Third in State

THE 1960 SEASON was a banner year for Trojan harriers, filled with high spirits from beginning to end. All through the year teams that had defeated the Trojans only a week or two before were soundly beaten by hard-running team members.

Early in the campaign, Topeka took third in a triangular with Haskell and Shawnee Mission East and were beaten in a dual with Washington. From then on, the route was all uphill. Troy took third in the regionals and finished behind Haskell and Wyandotte in the state battle at Emporia.

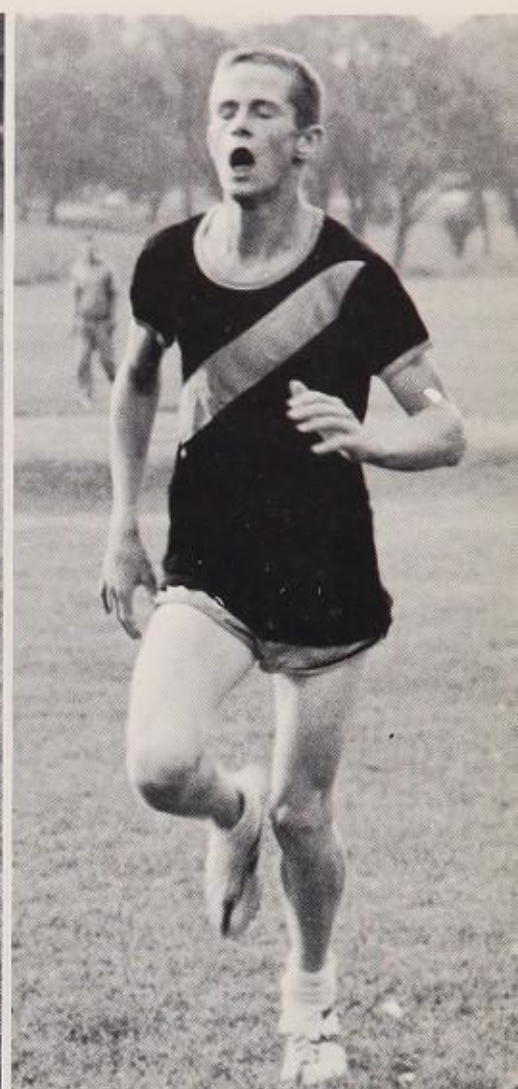

Three returning lettermen, Howard Woodson, Jim Oliver, and Steve Swartzell, helped form the nucleus for this year's squad. Seniors Scott Linscott and Vernon Turner, along with Sophomores Bob Boyd and Keith Searcy rounded out the lineup that ran in the state race. Linscott grabbed third place, Woodson fifth, Oliver eleventh.

TIME is of the essence.

NEARING the finish line is sprinter Theron Sims.

RIGORS of the race reflect in drawn faces of Howard Woodson and Bob Boyd.

Tankers 3rd in State; Lone Loss Mars Record

FLASHING through another successful pool season, Topeka High's swimmers amassed a record of 13-1, including the Sunflower League Crown. The tankers' victims included all the Wichita schools except East whose win once again marred an otherwise perfect Trojan slate. After losing to East 54-41 in the second meet of the year, the mermen ran up a string of twelve straight wins. They posted a 94-point total in the Sunflower League to 53 for SM-East, 23 for SM-North, and 15 for Wyandotte.

The state meet was a repeat of last year when the qualifying trials took a heavy toll of THS swimmers. This time Coffeyville edged out Troy for the runner-up spot behind repeating state champ Wichita East. Diver Steve Sanneman gained Topeka's only individual state first. Others placing were Buddy Thurston, 5th in the backstroke; J. B. Sharp, 4th in the 50-yard freestyle; Preston Hoyt, 4th in the breast stroke; Tom Magerkurth, 4th in the 200-yard free-style; 2nd in the free style relay team; and 4th with the 200-yard medley relay squad.

Coach.....Chet Laney

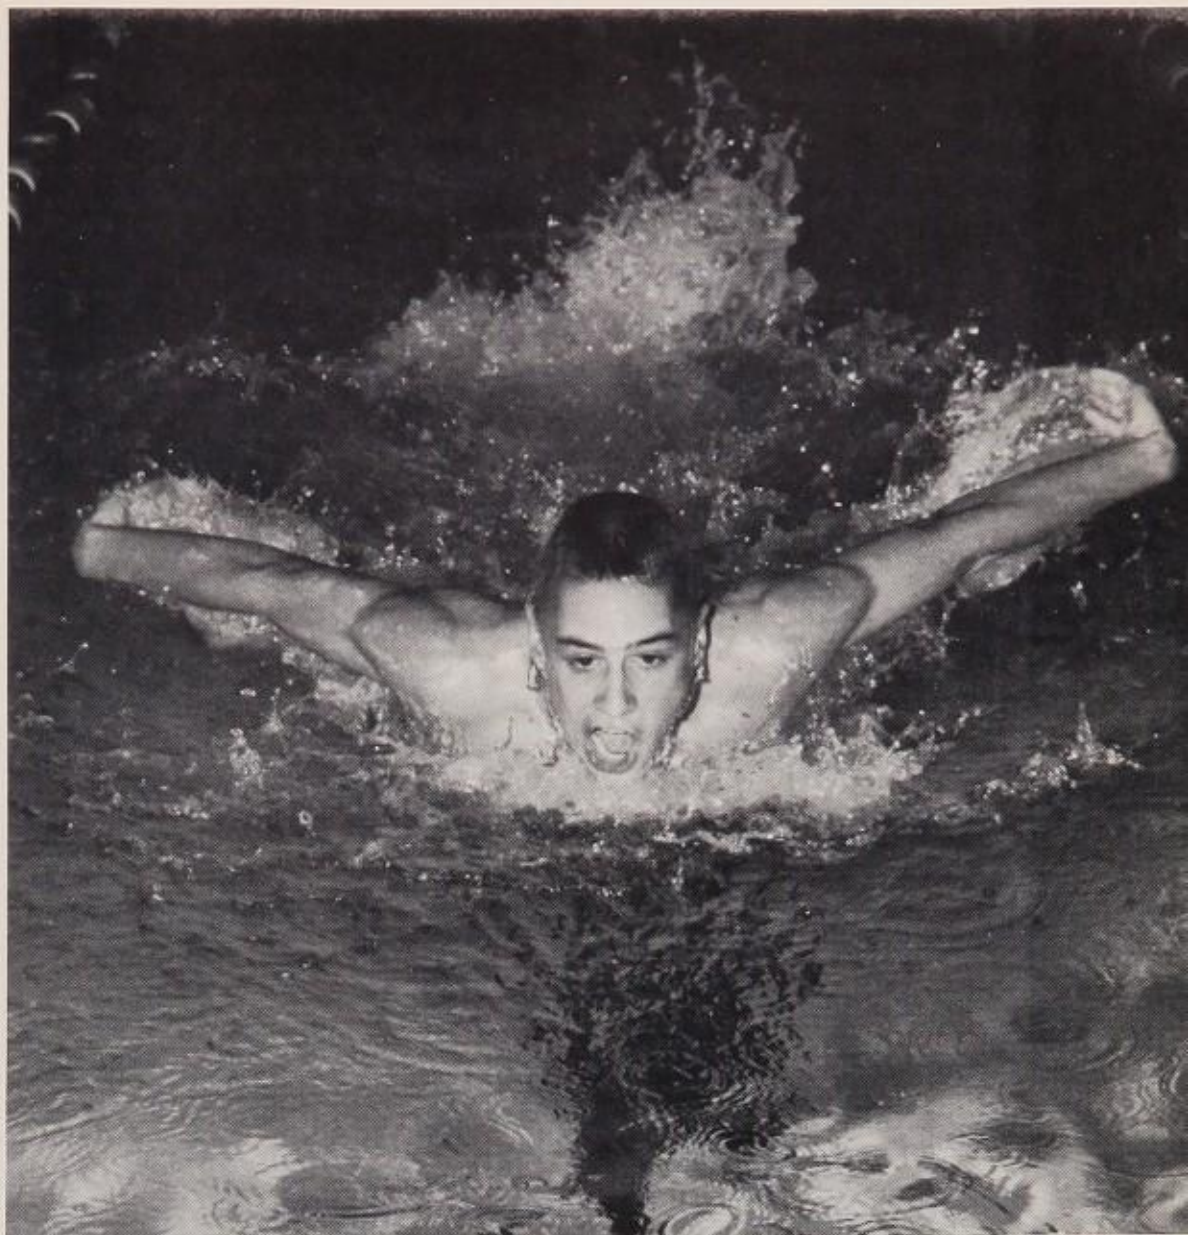

TROY'S divers, led by Steve Sanneman, picked up valuable points over the season.

Experienced Lettermen Anchor Steady Season

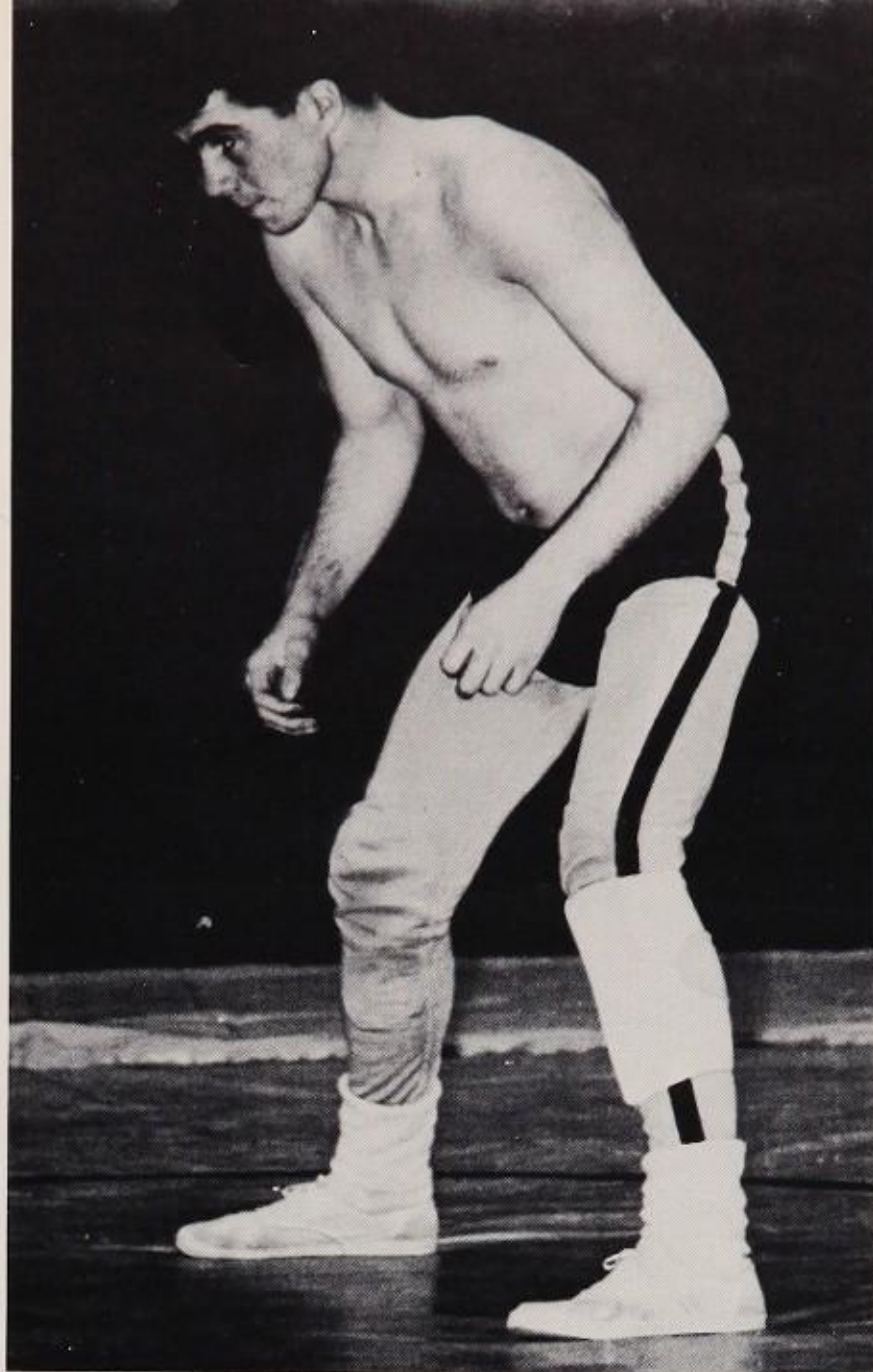

SUPPORTED by several experienced lettermen, Troy's grapplers hung up a season dual record of 6-3-1. After a slow start they finished in high gear by winning four of the last five meets. In the Topeka Invitational at Highland Park, THS placed fourth out of eight schools. Chuck Frisbie copped the only individual first when he won the 103-pound class title while the team award went to North Kansas City, Missouri.

Coach Bliss, in his second year at the wrestling helm, took four boys to the state meet at Colby. Qualifiers were Leonard Lewis, 95-pound class; Bob Warren, 112-pound class; Stan Nyswonger, 120-pound class; and Gary Oyler, heavyweight class. None was successful in the finals but Warren won his first match then failed to place.

Prospects for next year are cut because of the opening of Topeka West High School when returning matmen will be equally divided between the rivals.

Student Body

SOCIETY, in its broad sense of the recognition of the common ends which serve as the objectives of a community, has been honored since life came into the universe. Coronado found communal living among the Indian nations and among the Lords of the Plains, the great herds of buffaloes. Tomorrow's explorers to outer space no doubt will also find the native life on Mars or Venus striving for the common good, some as leaders, some as followers. How Trojans make up their school society is shown in their loyalty to their classes, their pride in their advancement, and their ease in getting along with each other.

WHERE the mighty buffalo roam today as they did a century ago, but now in the Scott County State Park.

INQUIRING minds mark the citizens of a Second Century.

Review Years at Troy; Scan Future's Scene

WHAT and Who and When and Where and Why are the hypothetical questions that were answered in many ways by members of the Class of '61 as they completed the transcript that marked the culmination of their public school years. To some the "what" was the Halls; to others the Tower, the Chimes, the 8:30 and 3:20 bells. Some remembered best Mr. Weaver and his co-workers, while others marked for permanence student friendships. The Prom, the plays, grade cards, rallies, and club meetings were important according to individual preferences. The cafeteria, gym, veranda, auditorium, and main office were places where never-to-be-forgotten events occurred. Learning, thinking, playing, serving, and growing all were reasons why the Class of 1961 marked this year as "Best of All."

Specific activities such as winning the Tag Day race as juniors; having the opportunity to know Elsa Sangalli and Rosemary Skinner and to share Nancy Dittemore, Jane Schendel, and Carla Bowman with students overseas; carrying through the "Moods in Abstraction" Prom; chalking up an enviable scholarship record; and being a part of THS as it was recognized as a Bellamy Award school were All-Class highlights. Both sentiment and sentimentality played their parts as the Seniors of '61 now stop to consider their three years "Under the Tower."

PROBLEMS are studied by Betty Bennett, Andrea Gresser.

Big 'Year of Division' Faces THS Middlemen

"IN A CLASS all by themselves"—any way that expression can be interpreted—is descriptive of the midway class. Neither the highest, nor the lowest, their record so far attests that they may prove to be the busiest. Troy's middlemen displayed enthusiasm and class spirit as they continued the start made in the fall of 1959. Triumphant over their "superiors", the Juniors booted home the second place award with their homecoming float, an accomplishment that triggered individual participation which brought credit to the whole class in the fields of debate, sports, publications, the arts, music, and service. Standings climbed scholastically as the largest group in history took the March Merit exams in hopes of setting records next year.

After winning the Tag Day race and unseating the Seniors, they turned about-face and honored them with the "Troy Cotillion", their version of the traditional Prom, highlight of the spring social season.

With one year yet to go—a "Year of Division" and added responsibilities—the juniors realized the challenges they must meet in 1961-62 to provide two major high schools with competent class leadership and student government and carry on Troy's great tradition while establishing a fine new one.

Sophomores

Newcomers' Records Mirror United Efforts

IT LOOKED impossible in September that the 1961 crop of sophomores would ever gather its forces, assemble its potentials, and transfer its strong but assorted junior high loyalties to a united Trojan front. However, in a short period of about six weeks the picture developed rapidly. Undergoing the usual tormenting by upperclassmen, it became evident by the official Induction Assembly that the maturing period was well under way. Then, as the Class of 1963, individuals left old enthusiasms and interests and took over new responsibilities. A strong slate of officers was selected, and when the time for the official swearing in ceremonies arrived, the newcomers "on the shelf" presented a fine appearance to their classmates.

The decision to enter a class float at Homecoming proved to be a wise one, and their original interpretation of the slogan payed off in the initial class victory, a first place award on their entry. To sports, clubs, government, and service, individuals added their support; and by the time the first term closed it was natural that the youngest class was prepared to join in its first social event, "Wonderland by Night."

Its division of future loyalties—since many will move out to Topeka West—proved to be no handicap, and next year's juniors in both schools will no doubt reflect traditions of loyalty started as sophomores under the "Shadow of the Tower."

Seniors' Activities

VISTAS to the East, West, North, and South greeted the pioneers as they first glimpsed the untrod Kansas Prairies. With persistence they withstood heat, cold, loneliness, strong winds, and the other perils of new frontiers. Discouragements only served to increase determination as the beauty of wide open spaces gripped their imaginations, and few ever turned away. Trojans see "far horizons" as they record the times they have experienced participation, cooperation, and direction of Topeka High's unlimited extra-curricular advantages.

SENTINELS for Lewis and Clark—the Three Pines near Atchison.

LOTS of work went into the tabulation of Honor-T questionnaires which showed Troy needs to be better informed. Roy Miller, Doug Slawson, Dave Thompson count the scores.

TOPEKA'S businessmen, often THS graduates themselves, have many Trojans in their employ.

COMMERCE boomed in Kansas as the pioneers cleared their small or large parcels of land and then built highways and railroads to tie their settlements together. Communities soon flourished, and the products grown on the virgin soil joined with imports from the eastern seaboard to fill the shelves of the homey country stores with both necessities and luxuries. Topeka's growing urban population of today demands and buys the best, both useful and beautiful; and some two thousand Trojans will soon join their parents with the buying power of a new and well-informed generation.

WEST BOUND wagon trains stocked up on provisions at Council Grove's Last Chance Store.

Memories Are Made of This. . . . .

KANSAS is an old gal this year—but she's getting her second wind. Anyhow, they always say the first hundred years are the hardest. Maybe they have been—but when you read the history books it sounds like fun. There were flapjacks and home-made sausage, aprons and bib overalls, horses to ride, and school only a few months a year. But looking at it another way—guess most of us are glad to be alive in 1961 not 1861—enjoying radio and TV, milk shakes, sports cars, central heating, wash 'n wear—enough—a lot—maybe too much of too much. Who knows? But not one of us breathes who isn't proud of a Kansas heritage—the strong, lean men—the strong, kind women—the strong, virile spirit of a State that bled and LIVED. Happy Birthday, and may you ever wave your blue flag on high and may we ever thrill to the wind through the ripening wheat and glory in the sunsets over your plains. We salute you!

Ye ol' SUNFLOWER staff is about to sink into the pages of Trojan history. We've aged, we're tired, and we're out of ideas—so here's your book. We hope you read it, enjoy it, keep it—now and year after year after year. . . .

The long-awaited 1961 has finally arrived. For 696 of us it means graduation, a day we have dreamed about for twelve years. All our days have been filled with memories we shall hold dear all our lives. But this, our last in the Topeka schools has gone the fastest, been the best, meant the most.

The peoples of the world will remember this year as the time when Premier Krushchev pounded with his shoe on the desk at the U.N. . . . . when Fidel Castro fried chickens in his New York hotel room . . . . . when the Russians released our Topeka fliers shot down over the Bering Sea . . . . . times of tension.

Did you all get to meet Troy? She's coal black, has piercing eyes, and the keenest ears around the place. She's a special watchdog of the German shepherd variety and she's already learned more about the Halls of Troy than most of us know after three years.

September brought the first night performance of YOUR SHOW. Mike Wilson, '60 did a superb job as M.C. and we'll never forget Mr. K. as Alfred Hitchcock; Mr. E. in "Better Living Through Chemistry"; Mr. E. and Mr. W. as contestants to the Olympics; and all the rest. It was a time for fund raising for the Bellamy program and a night of laughter for the 2000 who attended the show.

The heat of both autumn and Troy's fall elections went hand in hand as the student body vigorously participated in the democratic way. This was a year of double duty for both election commissioner and clerk, for hardly had the fall recounts been validated than it was time to plan the first spring campaign. Jim and Nancy, a fine job! Congratulations!

After high tempered Presidential elections, the Republicans, a la golf clubs, and the Democrats, a la baby carriages moved out of and into the White House.

Homecoming saw returning grads and much high spirit. Wasn't Queen Kathy a pretty tribute to Troy? The crisp, cool evening and the sparkling half-time go down in the books as a deep-dish-dilly.

The Bellamy Award has kept us all on our toes this year. What with Mr. Weaver's acceptance of nearly 300 letters of congratulations, Miss Miller's efficiency in getting the celebration plans in orbit, and Mrs. Greer's bubbling enthusiasm, we've had fine faculty backing to get us keyed up for next October. Too bad we seniors can't all be here—but we can always take a bow and say "WE done it!"

Troy polished up its trophies for the 26th year and entertained some 90 debate teams from throughout the state. Always a big tournament, the 1961 version was no exception. Coach Hill and his crew had a big season with worthy competition and enthusiasm.

Candid sets, thrilling music, and fine sentiment brought the sunny, sensational South Seas to the Trojan stage, Nellie, Ameil, Bloody Mary, and all the rest were well cast and their performances were loved by two standing-room-only audiences. South Pacific was the perfect choice for the 1961 operetta.

Margot made a pretty picture as she accepted the homage of her subjects, a real Queen of Courts on a night when Troy was publicly acknowledged as "the best among the best."

Oompah! Oompah! What a band—what a concert—what a Centennial Suite! Composer Dunford's welcome was one he will remember a long time, we'll wager. And Maestro Jacoby's return brought out the best in concert work as he re-emphasized his 1960 remarks that Mr. N's band men ARE superior.

Breaking a three-play-a-year tradition, the drama department put on two shows that topped them all—creepy blithe spirits and the earnestness of the Victorian generation.

Becoming a part of Troy and sharing our year was sparkling Elsa from Italy and charming Rosemary from Australia—two wonderful Ambassadors of Good Will. Their counterparts, Nancy, Carla, and Jane, made other corners of the world our friends.

What a year for sports! There was a good, solid fall season with gridmen and harriers doing well; a thrillingly hot finish to the basketball schedule; and as usual, the mermen came splashing through. Spring looks fine with golf, track, tennis. Great!!

The day was especially spirited when THS grad Jim Crews auctioned off senior seats, free lunches, and cookie treats on the annual AFS Tag Day. The coffers were filled to the $1500 mark and if all goes well there will be new friendships made next year when more exchange students make this their home base. Boys' Pep added their memorable hit with a show to stop all fashion shows.

The AFS bank account for '61-'62 got its initial push when the faculty Black-and-Blues challenged the Senior Satellites for a basketball classic—no holds barred and near-sighted referees preferred. It surely was a spirited clash and the poor Satellites had a hard time keeping their All-American rating.

Now that spring has rolled around, some of us have some scholarship honors racked up—more of us wish we had worked harder. Guess that hindsight isn't as good as foresight but it was a lot easier to produce. Anyhow, ye ol' Class of '61 has an impressive page of honors on the graduation program.

Topeka West's inauguration next September fills us with mixed emotions. Mostly we're glad to be the last class to have only one loyalty. Didn't the underclassmen Chargers do a fine job campaigning? It was no easy task, but what an opportunity they'll have to start from scratch. We'll be watching you!

Class Day was pretty "devilish," wasn't it? It had color and plenty of heat waves. Guess all the Class of '61 shed tears of real emotion and Kleenex came in pretty handy. But didn't we all look great?

"Pomp and Circumstance." What a beat to keep running through our memories for ever and ever. We'll never quite forgive the "powers" for taking away our own private vespers; nothing, BUT NOTHING can top graduation.

It would take hundreds of words for this tired ol' editor to say how much this year's SUN-FLOWER has meant in work, pleasure, and experience. We do say thanks to our fellow workers—a fine staff, an understanding adviser, and the co-operation of all. Nice going, friends. Take your bow and we'll take ours—we couldn't have done it alone.

An' how!

IT HAS BEEN a fine experience to complete the big job of writing and publishing a king-size yearbook. We had no idea when we started out last September that so many people would be interested in making our efforts ones to be proud of. For all the help, kind words, and cooperation we want to express our sincere thanks. Without YOUR help we might have failed our trust.

Thanks should go to Mr. Harold Lyle for the fine Centennial photos he permitted us to use for our division pages. They have made our observance of the Kansas birthday year one of dignity. Thanks to the Trade School and local photography studios for being willing to meet our deadlines. Thanks to the advertisers who know that tomorrow's buyers are to be found in the high school student body and that their advertising will soon be paying dividends.

Thanks to the professional help from our publishers. We feel that our relationship with them is unusually pleasant. We are grateful to faculty members who helped us on both copy and pictures for their departments. We appreciate their willingness when it was necessary to "set up" pictures. Among our staff members there are many who deserve an extra vote of thanks, but we all appreciate each other and Mrs. Greer and are sure that bringing our readers this edition will always be one of our Trojan highlights. We hope it is so well done that it again will bring glory to our school in the field of superior publications.

We all wish to sing songs, clap hands, and pat backs out of high spirits and pride in a yearbook we hope YOU will like. What a wonderful word we have in our language . . . . Thanks! Thanks! Thanks!

Kansas

KANSAS, I sing to you—
 Brave, young and strong land
 Covered by blazing high skies
 Arched blue above broad prairies and plains
 And filled with white sun's shining light.
 From the northeast's cool rolling hills
 To the sun-shimmered wastelands
 Far southwest, you have beauty.
 I stood once on the banks of a small river
 Coiling slow among the hills;
 Spring was smiling at summer and everything
 Was rich green touched by the sun's gold—
 An emerald shot through with sheaves
 of tawny wheat;
 And I ached with the knowledge
 That here was beauty and I was without words.
 Again, going further west to another
 land
 I saw beauty of a different kind:
 Vast plains stretched far to meet the sky—
 Shimmering with heat and light
 Under a dazzling sun in a white sky.
 This land was wild and savage and desolate,
 But with a strange beauty of its own,
 Unclaimed by any other.
 I hear "Kansas" and I see
 Wheat burned dark by the sun,
 Rippling in waves beneath the wind;
 Grain elevators, the cathedrals of Kansas,
 White silent sentinels guarding golden wealth;
 Green rolling hills, serene
 In their calm immovability;
 Your people, like you—strong and silent
 But with green places and deep springs,
 Hidden and clear.
 Kansas, you have been my home
 And have watched my growing up.
 Some day I will leave and go away
 East, maybe, or farther west to that other land,
 And I will be happy.
 But when I hear "Kansas"
 I will remember your beauty and say:
 You are a good place to come home to.

Promise of Things to Come

KEYED UP for things to come, Troy's 1961 graduates took a step into the future and presented the handsome Bellamy Award plaque as their parting gift. Along with the symbolic flag, here held by Senator Carlson, Senator Schoepel, and Representative Avery on the day it flew over the Nation's Capitol, it will become a permanent link in Topeka High School's chain of traditions. It will be officially unveiled on Bellamy Day, October 13, 1961.

Graduation

Fair Skies, High Spirits Join in 'Perfect Night'

THERE IS "nothing so rare as a day in June" if that day happens to be high school graduation. Following a morning of grade cards and yearbook signing and a rehearsal in brilliant sunshine, 702 students received diplomas, including four veterans, seven specials, and nine from the adult evening school. The stadium was crowded with proud and happy parents and friends while the grassy slopes of Moore Bowl were nearly filled with townspeople eager to get their annual glimpse of one of the Midwest's most impressive pageants.

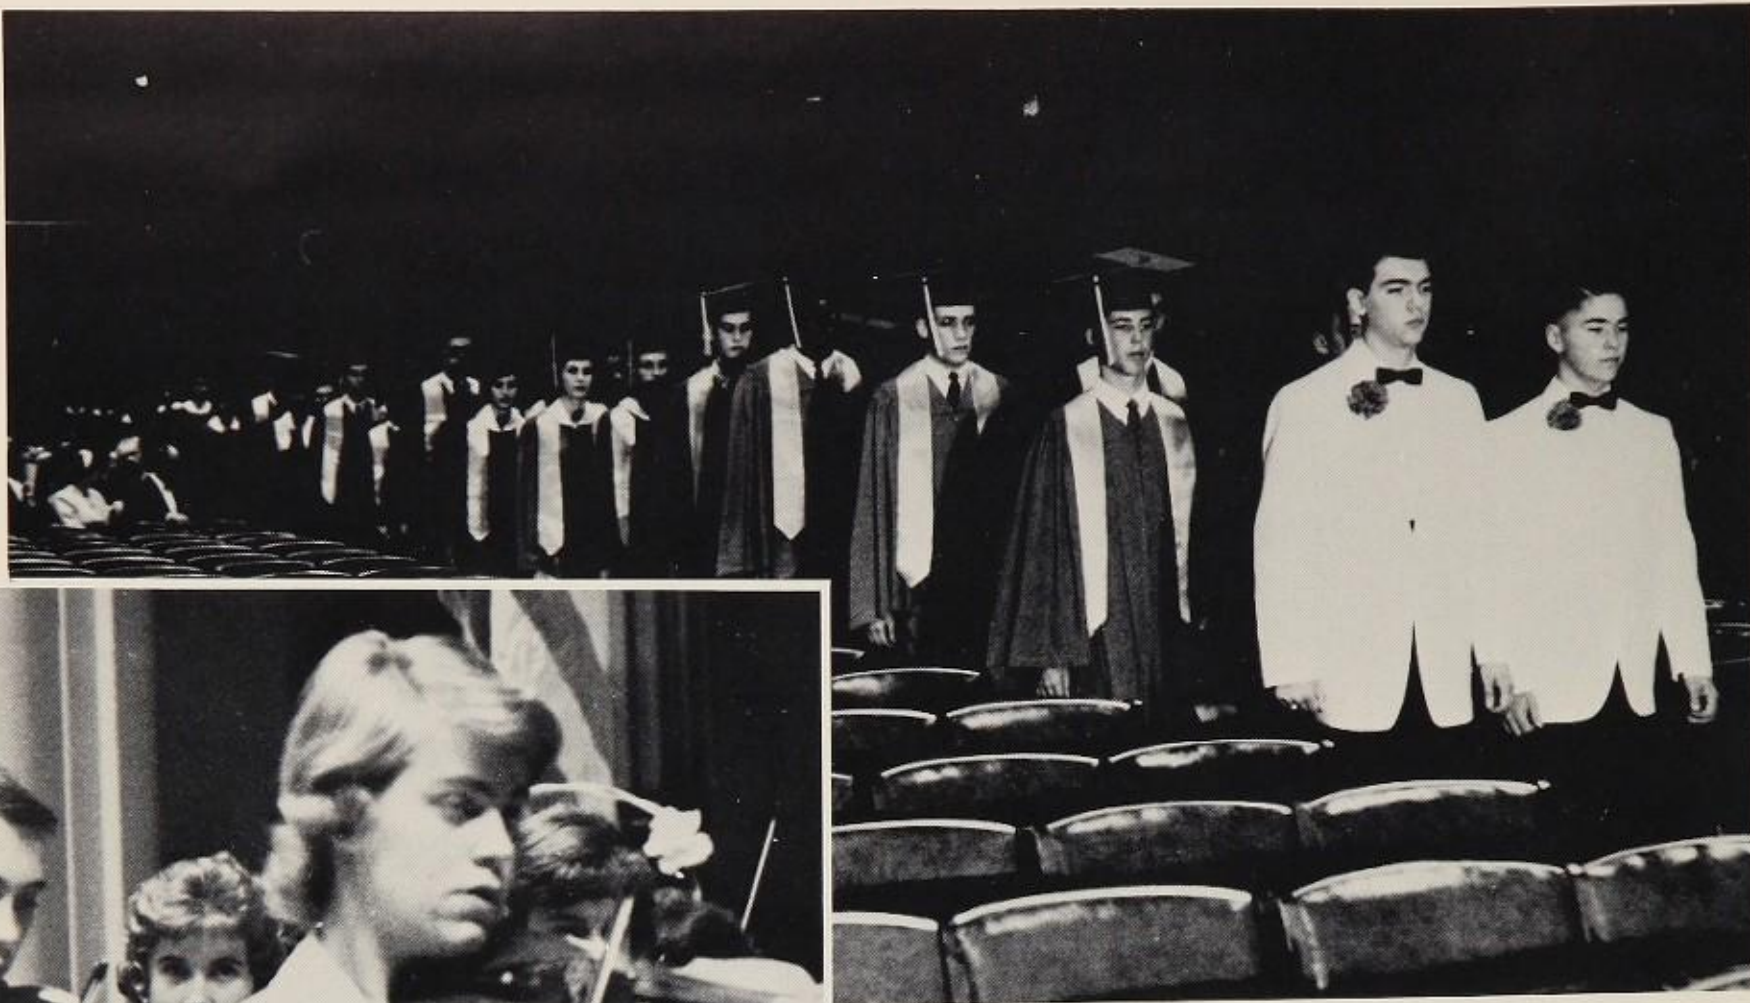

As a finale to the twelve years of public schooling in the American Way, the entire two-and-a-half hour program from the orchestra Prelude to the gay abandon of dismissal, was a series of highlights. "Pomp and Circumstance" accompanied the more than two hundred junior daisy chain girls who formed the aisle for the robed and cowled faculty and administrators, and finally the graduates.

Greeted, praised, admonished, challenged, and rewarded, each received his diploma with a sense of pride and an inward awareness of his responsibilities.

A LINE forms as Mr. Madl serves cokes at the post-graduation reception sponsored by class officers.

FIRST steps to graduation, led by junior ushers.

LAST performance—Eric Jackson, Ann Fetter.

Vespers Joint Religious Program Draws Schools Closer

IN AN ATTEMPT to join more closely the climaxing events in the lives of Topeka's high school graduates, Board of Education members made a trial run of unification with the traditional baccalaureate ceremonies May 28 in the Municipal Auditorium.

Although the more intimate Sunday afternoon event, held in Hoehner Auditorium and followed by a parents' reception, was regretted by tradition-loving Trojans, the 1961 version had a "Greater Topeka" atmosphere. The dignified line of march with Highland Park's 200-plus graduates and Topeka High's 700 grey-robed seniors gave the city's largest gathering place an authentic academic air.

The class sermon emphasized the spiritual challenge facing today's youth in a world of unrest where the need for humanistic understanding must balance man's rapid exploration into outer space.

Class Day

Great Day of Nostalgia Reviews Years at Troy

THE OLD and favorite theme of "Heaven versus Hell" took on a new twist May 19 when the Great Class of '61 showed its imaginative spirit and looked ahead to the year 2000. Having then been unconcerned for nearly half a century of simmering and sizzling, the homesick and suddenly reformed refugees from Under the Tower petitioned their Satanic Master for release and a transfer to cooler and more comfortable climes.

To prove their sincerity of purpose, the leaders called on members whose talents upheld their contention that their Class had been the BEST. With tail dragging and horns wilted, the Old Fellow finally admitted that Hades-2000 was no place for such outstanding THS graduates.

Full of sentiment, the traditional presentation of a class gift, the farewell address, and Class song were up-to-date demonstrations to the special 50-year guests, graduates of 1911, that Troy remains the same at heart though times and customs change.

MASTERS of rhythm, Joe Klugg and John Milliken "swing out."

"WITH snacks or meals, beans or cheese . . ." Preston Hoyt and Tom Magerkurth "take off" a TV commercial.

"SECOND chance, bah!" Devil Hawver and his impish supporters, Linda Light, Wendy Fisher, are skeptical about reasons for "going back up there."

"THESE were the days." Words of both appreciation and reminiscence flavor Ralph Muxlow's "Farewell to Troy."

"FROM a whippoorwill . . ." Sally
Lauterbach entertains the crowd in high-toned nightclub style.

WAITING cues, program rehearsal is watched by Loie Stone, Karen Seimeyer, Pam Nelson.

"HELP!" "I'll save her," shouts the big hero, Don Grimes. Loie Stone is his lady love, Richard Shutt the villain.

THROUGH the lovely rose bower, Tom Magerkurth escorts Mary Kay Perry for their first dance.

Junior-Senior Prom Showboat's a' Comin' Keynotes Annual Fete

DOCKING the Showboat for the Troy Cotillion, the 1961 Prom-goers descended for an evening of easy living and pleasing entertainment. The billowing ballroom set a mood of languid elegance with its sparkling fountain and crystal chandeliers. And only as far away as the rose-covered archway was the casino, complete with souvenir cards and roulette wheels.

Melodrama—as melodramatic as it could come—made the Prom program an unique success. Riverboat guests on stage and in the audience were entertained with the lively tempo of song and dance and the clever routine of animated puppets.

Receiving graciously, hosts and hostesses guided their guests through a successful party. Seniors and Juniors alike admitted that their evening at the Troy Cotillion was a charming one, a la sentiment and Southern hospitality.

ALL SMILES, social chairman Judy Cook, class sponsor Mrs. Bartlow, and Principal and Mrs. Weaver greet the guests.

HONOR-T'S take the spotlight.

Honor-T Holding Points in Line Core of Recognitions

REVISED and revived, Troy's honor system emerged this year with important changes aimed at equal point distribution. Of the minimum 22 points, at least 12 had to come from grades while the remaining spanned the whole field of activities. As Student Council hoped, the revision tightened the requirements and heightened the honor proving that "Honor is as honor does."

Weeks of filing, evaluating, conferring, and tabulating culminated in the annual assembly May 8 where 217 Trojans received recognition for their outside work on school-sponsored projects. Stars of the show were the nine All-Times who represented the top ten percent who received Honor-T's with at least 30 points. Three received the coveted award for the second year.

Student Council "adopted" the Honor-T system as a major project for 1960-61. From the response and enthusiasm shown by applicants, officers feel that steps have been taken to increase the "honor".

'The Importance of Being Earnest' Gay 90's Shows Mixup Foibles of Plush Era

THE ARTIFICIALITY of an artificial era provided the audience with new areas of humor and viewing, and gave the cast the unique challenge of reversing the expected reactions of normal persons to normal situations. Almost all of the techniques of present-day good acting were contradicted in making The Importance of Being Earnest an enjoyable farce about a stilted society.

Love was presented in an irregular manner and involved mass confusion. Gwendolyn, a city girl, and Cecily, a country lass, both cherished the "girlish dream of marrying a man by the name of Ernest. Therefore Jack and Algy found "Being Earnest" of great importance. To be "Ernest" with an "earnest" aspect, fraud and impersonation were inevitably employed, artlessly believed, and just as inevitably exposed.

Authentic costumes, Victorian settings, melodramatic gestures, and affected speech restored the atmosphere of the Gay Nineties. In short, the last play of the year was a refreshingly different stylization with the authenticity of a pretentious period.

WHERE IS that baby! Gwendoline, Jack, Dr. Chausable, Cecily, Algy, Miss Prism, and Lady Bracknell.

"LADY BRACKNELL," announces Merriman, but Algy and Cecily, Jack and Gwendoline are too preoccupied with reconciliations to notice—or care.

"I WILL see you, no doubt, at evensong?" Dr. Chausable attempts to disguise his motive for frequent calls on Miss Prism and Cecily.

Golf 'Capture State in '61' Tees Off Banner Year

TROJAN golfers avenged last year's play-off loss to Hutchinson by winning the 1961 state championship in four-man competition by a comfortable margin. Scott Linscott, Bay Chotlos, Bill McDonald, and John Stinson comprised the foursome which capped a highly professional season with a state trophy at the Wichita playoff.

Team members managed to make a good showing in every one of their outings. In addition to the state meet, Coach Laney's linksmen posted victories at invitationals held at Highland Park, Junction City, Salina, and Shawnee Mission East. Titles also fell their way in Sunflower League competition and at the Regionals. The two-man team won its first eleven meets before bowing to Pem Day and dropping to sixth in the Regionals.

Although a number of this year's golfers are underclassmen, prospects for next spring are dimmed because several, including McDonald, will play for Topeka West.

Net Dominance Reveals Championship Caliber

WITH TWO of the top players in the Midwest area, Troy's tennis squad rolled over all its foes to bring home the second consecutive state championship. Over all, the netters have not tasted defeat for 27 outings.

Coach Mel Villeme had plenty of talent to choose from. John Grantham avenged his only loss of the year in the state finals by turning back Salina's Lance Burr and becoming a two-time champion. Close on his heels, Barry McGrath came away with a third in state singles play. The doubles team of Alan Smith and John Lord captured the top spot in the regionals but lost out in the first round of the state meet at Winfield.

Prospects for next spring continue bright with graduation taking only McGrath and Smith and leaving junior lettermen Grantham and Lord and sophomores Bill Williams and Gale Howard.

Seven Firsts Highlight Weather-Fated Season

POWERED by sprinters and jumpers and backed by an unusually large number of fleet-footed sophomores, Troy's thinclads raced through a highly successful season but emerged as the state's number four team. The initial drop to fourth in the early Indoor Meet was the bounce that led to the mid-season boom despite rain and chill and a disappointing windup.

Several fine individual performances added spice to the season's record. Senior Bill Bradford set a school mark in the javelin early in the year, and the 440-yard relay team snared a title at the Kansas Relays where scores were not recorded. Joel Lawson, Dave Crandall, Andy Williams, and Bill Harris stepped off a state record of 1:28.7 in the 880-yard relay.

Even with these top showings, Troy was held to one state championship: Buddy Witts and John Nunley tied in the high jump at 6'3.5". Harris managed to place second in the 100-yard dash; Art Lewis was fifth in the broad jump; and the 880 runners nailed fourth.

Coach .....D. L. "Heavy" Erwin

STATE Champion Buddy Witts clears the bar.
